THIRD GRAND SALE
—OF—
HOUSE LOTS

WABAN VILLAGE, on the Circuit,
NEWTON, MASS.

Village, on SATURDAY, the 14th day of June next,

AT 3.15 O'CLOCK P. M.

50 Choice House Lots
Well located on the fine new streets and avenues, on the high healthy table land with a fine outlook for miles, and in a spot conceded
by all to be one of the healthiest of Boston's Suburbs.

WABAN, with its fine new stone station, its 36 trains daily to and from Boston, its handsome residences already erected, its new store block now building, its school-house just voted by the City Council, its electric lights and other modern conveniences too numerous to mention, together with its great NATURAL ADVANTAGES gives Waban, although the youngest of Newton villages, a thoroughly established position and it takes but a glance to convince the most skeptical that in the near future
this village will take its place as one of, if not the, most desirable spots in the Garden City.

The lots offered are located on Varick Road, White Oak Road, Neshobe Road, Agawam Road, Beacon and Washington Streets. All the streets have been laid out and built at great expense under the supervision of the eminent landscape engineer, E. W. Bowditch. The lots vary in size from 10,000 feet to 20,000 feet with a good frontage for every lot.

Many of the buyers at our two previous sales have already disposed of their purchases at a profit and others have refused all advances believing in a greater profit in the near future.

Why go South or West, thousands of miles from home, to invest in lands, when such a grand opportunity as this is offered within thirty minutes' ride of Boston, over the best R. R. in New England.

Policies issued by Massachusetts Title Insurance Co. free of charge to purchaser for full amount of sale

Free tickets both ways on day of sale, to be had of the Auctioneers.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING.

MARRIAGE OF MR. ELZEAR J. ETHIER AND MISS CAROLINE L. PHILLIPS.

Miss Caroline Lovell Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Sarah A. Phillips, and Mr. Elzear Joseph Ethier were married Monday evening in the Second Congregational church. The auditorium was completely filled with the friends of the bride and groom, over 500 persons being present, representing the well known society people of West Newton and vicinity.

The interior of the church was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the front of the organ being banked with palms, flowering shrubs and hydrangeas.

The bridal party entered the church at 8 o'clock, the organist rendering the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The bride, leaning upon the arm of her brother and preceded by her little bridesmaid, Miss Ethel Phillips, and the six ushers, Mr. Richard B. Callender, Mr. J. E. Lake, Mr. Walter Page, Mr. Henry Page and Mr. William Page of Boston, and Mr. E. Parker Cassell, Jr., of Dedham, met the groom, who was attended by his best man, Mr. Edward Mullen of Cambridge, in front of the pulpit, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry J. Patrick, pastor of the church.

The bride was attired in a white surah silk, court train, garniture of duchess lace, the usual long tulle veil and diamond ornaments. She carried a bouquet of Catherine Mermet roses. The little bridesmaid, the daughter of the bride's brother, wore a very pretty surah silk costume, and carried a beautiful basket of flowers.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Shaw street, West Newton, which was attended by relatives and intimate friends, the company numbering about 200 persons. The exterior of the house was illuminated with strings of Japanese lanterns and an arch from which lanterns were suspended, was placed over the walk near the main entrance. The newly wedded couple stood in the parlor beneath a floral umbrella, composed of daisies, and received the congratulations and good wishes of those present. The wedding gifts were numerous and costly, including a beautiful marble mantel clock from the groom's business associates, employees of Messrs. Wheeler, Blodgett & Co., Summer street, Boston, many articles of solid silver ware, Royal Worcester ware, cut glass and china, and the usual number of pretty and useful presents.

At the close of the reception, the couple departed for the West on their honeymoon tour. Upon their return they will reside on Shaw street, West Newton, where they will be at home Thursdays in September. Among those present at the reception were noticed: Mrs. George K. Davenport, Mr. Mell Davenport, Mr. George Walker, Miss Ethel B. Webber, Mr. William A. Webber of Beverly, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bourne, Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Patrick, Rev. Dr. G. W. Shinn, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Nott, Mr. and Mrs. Flagg of Charlestown, Miss Augusta B. Lathrop, Miss Carrie Bourne, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bourne, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burgess, Mrs. Golding, Mrs. Henry Harpin, Mr. and Mrs. John Bean, of Newton.

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past obliges us to admit that only one remedy has met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms yield to it.

The vocal organs are strengthened by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Clergymen, lawyers, singers, actors and public speakers find this preparation the most effective remedy for irritation and weakness of the throat and lungs, and for all affections of the vocal organs.

Fashion Sayings.

The young men of Boston have the reputation of being the best dressed men in the world.

The firm that makes more clothes for young men than any other two firms put together in New England are Chas. Green & Co., Tailors, 581, 583 and 585 Washington Street, Boston.

Men have good reason to congratulate themselves upon the many opportunities to gratify their taste for Fashionable Clothes provided by this popular firm.

Wide trousers are still in vogue, so are the Black Cheviot Suits.

Five dollars and fifty cents seems rather a small sum for a pair of custom trousers, but Chas. Green & Co. are displaying over 1000 different styles of goods suitable for trousers at this price. Their suits to order at $25 and Spring Overcoats to order at $21 cannot be duplicated at any other Merchant Tailor for less than $30 to $35.

Persons desiring well fitting clothes should give them a call, they guarantee a perfect fit.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful
consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms
and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

The Infant Prodigy.

A veteran entered at my gate
With locks as cherry-blossoms white;
His clothes proclaimed a prosperous fate,
His boots were arrogantly bright.

The hat was glossy on his head,
Gold-rimmed his eye-glass, gold his chain,
In genial curves his waistcoat spread,
And golden-headed was his cane.

Without a preface thus he spoke,
"I've called to get my annual due";
Whereat I too the silence broke
With, "Who, respected sir, are you?"

"What is your claim against me, pray?"
A many-childed man am I,
Hard-pinched my monthly bills to pay,
And prices rise more than I can see."

"Not know me? Everybody knows And gladly gives his note," quoth he,
"Why, I'm a babe in swaddling clothes,
I am an Infant Industry."

"Forgive me, Reverend Shape," I cried,
"You set my faith a heavy task;
This infancy which seems your pride,
Is it your second, may I ask?"

"Oh have you, where so many failed,
The key to life's Elksir found?
You look like one who never ailed,
In wind and limb sedately sound."

"You doubt my word? (Excuse these tears,
They flow for you and not for me);
Young man, for more than seventy years
I've been an Infant Industry."

Your father rued my helples lot,
Lifelong he handed me his fee
Nor ever asked himself for what;
He loved an Infant Industry."

Quoth I, "He paid my ransom then
From further to-bes, small or great;
Besides, if I am judge of men,
Since that, you've grown to man's estate."

He murmured, as I bowed him out,
"The world is getting worse and worse;
This fellow almost makes me doubt Whether I've not been changed at nurse."

"But no, this last, this case, these boots,
This suit in London made by P., Convince me to the very roots
I am an Infant Industry."

Until he vanished from my sight
These words came floating back to me:
"Yes, 'spite of Time, in reason's spite,
I am an Infant Industry!"

Joab and Amasa.

The Chicago Tribune has a cartoon in the best style of newspaper wood-engraving representing Joab McKinley embracing Farmer Amasa and putting the knife under his fifth rib. Accompanying the cartoon is a text of Scripture followed by a short sermon thus:
"And Joab said to Amasa: Art thou in health, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with the right hand to kiss him. But Amasa took no heed
of the sword that was in Joab's hand.
So he smote him therewith under the fifth rib."

Joab McKinley is just now full of tender solicitude regarding the health of his friend Amasa, the American farmer,
and he is filling the ears of that simple-minded individual with fine stories of all he is going to do for him. Higher duties on hops, eggs, and beans are to be imposed on consumers for America's "protection," but he does not observe Joab's shen sword ready to be thrust under his fifth rib in the shape of much higher duties on the farmer's clothing, hosiery,
and overcoats; on blankets, carpets, felt hats; on cotton wear of all kinds; on linen fabrics; on china dishes and earthenware;
on glass of all sorts; on knives, forks,
spoons, and all kinds of cutlery; on kitchen utensils; on tin cups, dishes, and buckets; on tin cans for fruits, vegetables,
and meats; on sugar of milk for sick
children; on sulphuric acid—a constituent of fertilizers; large direct bounties
from the national Treasury to Louisiana
sugarplanters to make their business profitable, but not a cent of bounty to Illinois growers of wheat, oats, or corn
when produced at a loss. The farmer with the kisses of Joab McKinley fresh on his lips, is so delighted that he does not see the sword, or rather the whole arsenal of deadly weapons which that individual is carrying around with him.
He does not observe that Joab, while promising him higher wages for his truck,
is preparing to thrust his sword under his fifth rib."

The Cow and her Home Market.

The Standard is not in the habit of giving merchants free advertisement,
but it proposes to do so now, and the recipient of its favor is Mr. Sterling Elliott, who manufactures hickory bicycle wheels
at Newton, Mass. Whether hickory wheels are better than steel wheels, we cannot say, but Mr. Elliott evidently believes so, and he is not afraid of competition, come whence it may. In answer to questions put to him as to the effect of the tariff on bicycles, he says:
During early life we were permitted to acquire a horse or less, with cattle (this may account for many things about which our friends have wondered). Among our former companions was a cow, whose offspring had at a tender age been taken from her to be made into turtle soup.
Her maternal instinct was strong, and in true grief she wandered far into the woods and thus her owner was unable to perform the functions formerly attended to by the calf. Finding herself in need of relief, having a long neck and a belief in patronizing home industries, she was able to take from her own udder the milk that was "seeking an outlet." Indignant at first as a necessity (sort of "war measure," as it were), the habit
grew upon her until she came to consider it quite the proper thing and declined other forms of nourishment. Our employer attempted in various ways to make her oblivious of her error. "It is true," said he, "she is getting fourteen quarts of good rich milk every day, but she doesn't consider where it comes from." She was still unwilling to swap her own product so as to get more nourishing food which could be produced by others at a profit, and insisted on keeping "foreign competition," determined to supply herself with substance at whatever cost. Well, the cow couldn't see it otherwise, but the owner did, and when her body got so much poorer that her head found nothing from which to get fatter, he put her in a straight jacket,
and when she got to eating the right sort of cheaper food she produced milk enough when sold in the open market to more than twice pay for it. And the people who raised the hay and grain made a profit so that they could afford to buy the milk. They tell us that if English made bicycles were admitted duty free

into this country, it would drive out of business the American makers. We deny this, but let that pass and suppose that American makers could not compete.
What of it? Is the one man who makes wheels of more consequence than the ninety and nine who want to buy? We wot not, as Coleridge would say. Personally we are young and green and may be "away off" on these things, but we don't want to be protected, even from the leers of those who don't know the virtue of Hickory Wheels. When we can't hold our own, provisions are made for us to be supported at the public expense, but we want it called by its right name, and then the public know what they are paying for.

What the Farmers Say.

If the Senate of the United States wants to relieve the farmers, let it reduce taxation on the things the farmer is obliged to buy, and adopt a monetary system which will not discriminate against the producer and in favor of the consumer. Agriculture is not sick that it should have phisic and blisters. Agriculture is shackled by high-tariff taxation and class financial legislation. Cut the bonds and see how strong American agriculture is.—[Western Stockman.]

The cry that those who favor a radical though gradual reduction of the tariff
are free-traders is now treated with defiance. It is not probable that any sane man would favor the sudden abolition of the tariff, even though a large class may claim that ultimate, absolute free trade would be economic. What the masses want, what they will eventually get, and that probably soon, is legislators pledged
in such a way that there is no backing down: to (1) the abolition of the tariff of the lobby; (2) so radical a reduction of the tariff that they will no longer be throttled
with tariff gone mad, in the interest of a few overgrown rich.—[Prairie Farmer.]

Samples of the Representatives of New England now in Congress.

Senator Dawes of Massachusetts, who hopes he shall not be asked either to promote or to oppose the McKinley Bill; and O. C. Moore of New Hampshire, who declared that New England must lose her industries and might as well give them up voluntarily and at once!

AUBURNDALE.

—A more delightful evening of entertainment could hardly have been planned than that of last Thursday by Mr. J. Walter Davis and his lovely girl pupils at Lasell.
The ride to that beautiful suburb, Auburndale,
through the early evening, followed by a program of Mendelssohn. The ensemble of the Orphean Club was particularly fine in "The Hoar Frost Fell," while the
"O come let us worship," by Mr. J. Bartlett, assisted by a mixed chorus of male and female voices, was exceptionally excellent in harmony and finish. The concert was held in the gymnasium, which was crowded with a brilliant company from the Newtons and Boston. Mr. Novell's violin playing was an unalloyed delight.—[Boston Herald.]

—The "May Sale" conducted by The Altar Guild and their friends was a great success in social and financial features. A very pretty entertainment of song and instrumental music was given on each evening by a chorus of children, Master Willie Hall of Grace church choir, soloist, under the supervision of Mr. Edward Parker, who accompanied with the piano.
Miss Estella Drake of Riverside sang very acceptably. Mrs. Edith (Brackett) Stewart of Boston delighted all hearers with her beautiful rendering in solo and duet with
Mr. James Alken Metcalf of New York.
On both evenings Mr. Metcalf sang solos
of an artistic and dignified manner.
Mr. Harry L. Murdock gave a cornet solo
well executed, and Mr. John Mardon, Jr., set merry feet tripping to the sound of his bando and harmonica duets. The fancy work department under the care of Miss Hannah R. Boyd (each with a corps of assistants) were attractively arranged and all liberally patronized. The little ladies of the St. Agnes Guild had a lovely display of their handiwork on their table and also furnished the fish pond, where Miss Palmer of Brighton assisted them. Mrs. Carter had charge of the "mystery tree" under the care of Miss Lloyd and her pretty son-woman all the flowers and pot plants were sold. Miss Bayley's "guess," which finally proved to be a ham, brought in a good profit and much merriment. Mr. Carter sold the "delated goods" at a jolly auction
and the occasion concluded with a dance.

The Old Elms on Washington Street.

The two old elms on Washington street, now being cut down by order of the City Fathers, to widen the entrance of Bellevue street, having given their shade and beauty to Newton for nearly a century, deserves a "parting notice."
They are two of a row of fine large elms
which used to shade Washington street,
standing on the north side, from Church
to Crafts streets, making a charming drive or walk through the summer in the old times when this part of Newton was but a country village called Angier's
Corner. They were planted by Maj.
Timothy Jackson of Revolutionary fame
in 1793, and held in their places while being planted by his oldest son, Wm.
Jackson, then a boy 10 years old, well remembered by the older residents of the city as one of Newton's benefactors. All but three of these fine elms have now given place to the march of improvement in the city. E. D. J.

LAWTON'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

FOR THE

BLOOD, LIVER AND KIDNEYS.

This great constitutional remedy has been on the European market for over twenty years, is superior to all others, and proven the greatest Blood Purifier and System Renovator ever compounded by medical skill. Nothing can equal it for putting the vital portions of the body in condition. If your liver is affected do you stop to think how, or what your liver is? The liver is the subject to more or less little pains or aches. This organ is the sponge of the body and is continually soaked full of blood rich in poisons. Its purpose is the secretion of certain digestive and cathartic elements known as bile, and the transformation of those products of digestion which are absorbed into the blood and carried into the liver before they enter the general circulation and assist in nourishing the body. Inactivity, then, produces numerous diseases. So by using Lawton's Vegetable Compound your liver will be free from all disease. It is also absolutely necessary to know what and where are your kidneys. There are two kidneys, one on each side of the backbone. They are the only organs that purify the blood of the uric acid waste in the system. Every drop of blood courses through a great many times a day, just as through the heart. The waste matter which they should take away contains deadly poison which, if retained, causes fatal results. Sixty-five gallons of blood per hour, in the average man, passes through the kidneys, and to purify it they must be in perfect health. The kidneys are filled with many thousand hair-like tubes. These tubes run into every part of the kidney, and as the blood flows through that organ, the urine passes into these tubes, and is drained into the bladder. If these little tubes are diseased, and the uric acid is not removed, and instead of this poison coming through the blood or the albumen, which is really the life of the blood, comes through these walls and escapes with the urine; in other words the nerve action is entirely wrong, and instead of taking the poison out of the blood the life of the blood is taken out and the poison remains.

By its immediate action upon these vital organs thoroughly cleanses, renovates and restores them to their normal condition.

Palatable as Milk. MILK Pleasant to the Taste. No Nausea.

GRANITE STATE PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

The question of homes and the methods of procuring them is one of the most vital that men have to deal with. The great mass of our people struggling under limited incomes are obliged to use economy in almost all directions to save out of their earnings sufficient to be of much benefit to them in acquiring the same. Co-operative banks have been the result of the workings of public-spirited men of the past; and their step has been "improved," making the accumulations of small savings valuable in the application toward certain specific objects, is a boon to any community. The Granite State Provident Association has made this improvement, and its plan, which is unique and original with us, of which the above club is a part. To say they have taken a decided step in this direction it is not desired to create the impression that the object of their work is a philanthropic one. But, if it does procure a saving or a more economical use of the funds of the people of limited means, it certainly is valuable in its action and is worthy of the consideration of all.
Call or send for information if you want to get a home, pay off a mortgage, or desire a safe and profitable investment, as we offer much better terms than any other association CAN, or than any bank or capitalist WILL.

—Last Friday morning while driving down Galen street, Mr. R. Emerson's horse became frightened, and both he and his coachman were thrown out, though fortunately neither were injured. The horse was stopped by running into a fence.

—The cards are out for the wedding of Miss Bessie Clark of Los Angeles, Cal., to Mr. Harding of Boston. It will take place at Grace church, June 19th, at 11:45 a.m., and be followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. J. Sturgis Potter, Walnut Park.

—Mr. Currier has sold the house he has just completed, corner of Waverley avenue and Tremont street, to Mr. Chas. Hunt, of Walnut street, Newtonville, who will occupy it. Mr. Currier is to build another house on the adjoining lot on Waverley avenue, for his own residence.

—The dress parade Memorial day was all right so far as it went, but was marred somewhat owing to the ignorance of the musicians who failed to play at the right time. The parade was dismissed after the usual features. The High school battalion and the Cadet Guard made a very creditable appearance.

—Wm. Z. Ripley was one of the Tech. graduates this year, and his thesis was "A project for abolishing the grade crossings at Main street, Northampton Mass."

Among the other graduates were Arthur H. Adams, Joseph B. Baker, Fred S. Hollis, Newton Highlands, and Stephen W. Moore. Fred C. Moore of Newton Highlands received a certificate.

—Among the music to be sung by the choristers of Grace church on Sunday are the following pieces: A Te Deum by Hutchinson, an English canon, also by Hutchinson, and Nunc Dimittis by G. F. Cobb; three very beautiful compositions, with parts for boys and men separately. A treble solo by one of the boys will be on the theme, "As when the weary traveler gains."

—Donations for the Pomroy Home during the month of May are as follows: Newton clothing, box of cards, children's playthings; Baptist church, meat, bread, cake; Eliot church, rolls, this church, Centre clothing, milk, rumbar, keg of vinegar; "King's Daughters," 20 bags of boot findings. Auburndale clothing, boots, carpet. Newtonville clothing. Boston clothing.

—There were 29 deaths in Newton in April, of which 4 were from pneumonia, 3 from diphtheria, 2 from old age and 2 from apoplexy. There were eighteen other diseases which caused one death each.

There were 12 cases of contagious diseases of which 9 were diphtheria, and six of these were in Ward One. The report states that there is but little sickness of a contagious character at the present time.

—Alderman Hamblen entertained the late choir of Grace church, and a few friends, at his residence, Tuesday evening of this week, informally opening his new and elegant music room. During the evening Mr. Hamblen was presented by the ladies and gentlemen of the choir with a remarkable proof of the fine etching, "The Chorister Boys," by Spiegle in token of their esteem and grateful recognition of his many favors towards them.

—It probably has not yet dawned upon the minds of our people what a noble institution the Cottage Hospital is becoming. To say but little of the fact that it has already treated nearly 500 cases since it was opened, and that it has gained a reputation far and wide for skillful care of its patients by physicians and nurses, it is now on the eve of additions that will make it still better equipped for good work. Contracts are shortly to be made for three new wards for contagious cases.

—The closing gathering for this season of "The Mother's Meeting" was held in the chapel and parish house of Grace church on Wednesday. The service in the chapel at 5:30 o'clock was in the nature of a memorial of Miss Hannah Allen, who had been at the head of this chapel of the Guild since its start. Dr. Shinn made an address, in which he said that Miss Allen's loss was sorely felt for three reasons: 1st, she was a true friend; 2nd, she was a generous; 3rd, she tried to be on the side of righteousness. After supper there were songs by Mrs. Cutler and readings by Miss Shinn, all being greatly enjoyed.

—Memorial services were held in the Eliot church last Sunday evening. The auditorium was completely filled, the seats in the front of the church being occupied by Chas. Ward Post of Newbury, J. Willey Edmunds camp 106, Sons of Veterans, West Newton, Newton Highlands battalion, and F. P. H. Rogers post 29, Waltham. The interior of the church was appropriately decorated, and beautiful flowers were arranged upon the pulpit and the organ. The exercises included a sermon by the pastor, Rev. Walcott Calkins, D. D., whose text was taken from Psalm lxxxv, 10: "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other."

—The Newspaper Club observed its second annual ladies' night by a picnic on the Charles river, Tuesday evening. About 20 members, with their wives and lady friends, took a train at the Albany station in Boston late in the afternoon and rode out to Riverside, where they embarked in boats at the Partelow boathouse, and rowed down the river to a beautiful spot.

An elegant collation was served under the trees, and a couple of hours were pleasantly spent with songs and dancing on the greenward. At 9 o'clock the boats brightly illuminated with Japanese lanterns cruised up the river, passing the famous Norembega tower on Stony brook. (The fleet was greeted by the residents along the shore in the firework club and hearty cheers. The bright rays of the full moon and the delightful weather added materially to the pleasures of the occasion. Before separating each of the ladies was presented with a hand-some hand-printed souvenir program by the Robinson Engraving Company, containing the names of the officers and members of the club, including the first editions, or children born to members of the club.

Lasell Notes.

The Mendelssohn concert of May 26th was in every way a success, excepting that more space would have been desirable. The evening being pleasant a great number came and it was difficult to seat them all comfortably.

The guitar concert of the Enterpean club though very well attended was not crowded. The Lasell concert assisted with singing.

Monday, June 24, a large party spent the day in Plymouth with much enjoyment. Trips like this and the one to Newport last week, are taken every week in the weather, during the fall and spring.

They are object lessons, by which the teacher of American History and literature, seeks to fix her instructions in the minds of her pupils.

Tuesday afternoon some large barges took a company to the Hunnewell Gardens in Wellesley, while other pupils in a party attended the commencement of the Perkins Institute for the blind at South Boston. The exercises were at Tremont Temple.

Memorial day at Lasell is not usually a full holiday, as the time is put into one of the vacations of the year. It was noticed as usual on Friday at the morning opening exercises by some appropriate speaking in reading and singing. A small number of teachers attended some of the patriotic exercises in Boston.

Some of the pupils were at church in Boston on Sunday. An effort is made to allow pupils from a distance, the privilege of hearing pulpit celebrities in Boston, of seeing the finest churches, and under appropriate circumstances of gaining every advantage which that city affords.

The Lasell Battalion held its prize drill Wednesday afternoon, June 4th. On account of bad weather, all the exercises were in the gymnasium. Companies A, B, & C, were drilled by their own officers, respectively Captain Cummings, Sutton and Sherwood, and then reviewed by Captain Fox, the teacher. Co. C, received the banner which up to this time has been held by Co. A, but Capt. Fox in some closing remarks assured that three companies that they had done so well that the contest was very closely drawn. Major Beynon in presenting the medal to Miss Belle Bragdon was pleased to notice the improvement that had been made since he was their teacher in the beginning, three years ago. Lieut. Clayton in a brief speech remarked also on progress especially in marching well, in walking. The judges were Lieut. Frank C. Locke, adjutant 1st cavalry, Lieut. Fred L. Clayton, adjutant 8th, M. V. M. Infantry, Lieut. Francis Meredith, Jr., Co. H., 4th Infantry. After the dress parade, individual competition was in order, and then Miss Belle Bragdon won the first medal and Miss Annie Brown of Hartford, Conn., the second.

Mr. Bragdon in the name of Miss Bragdon, teacher of gymnastics presented Miss Mary Hood of Tennessee, for the greatest gain of strength in the gymnasium during the school year, a prize of a pearl set in gold forming a pin. Miss Mary Snyder of Illinois was second in the list, and Miss Sue Englehart of Missouri third. Deserving special mention in the gymnasium were Misses A. Brown, Carl, Cole, Collins, A. Davis, J. Hubbard and Wilder. The decision of the judges was made entirely through numbers, the names of the young women being quite unknown to those.

The commencement concert will be held on Thursday evening, June 12th, at 7:45.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. Frank M. Bristol, D. D., Sunday, June 15th.

Mrs. Chant's Lecture.

Mrs. Laura Ormiston Chant lectured in Eliot Hall, last evening, under the auspices of the Social Science Club, for the benefit of the Industrial School at Nonantum. In spite of the brief notice given there was a large attendance and much interest was manifested. Mrs. Chant was introduced by Mrs. Sawyer, who spoke briefly of the efforts made in behalf of this school, and the excellent field for work there. Rev. Mr. Hornbrook, Rev. Dr. Calkins, and a number of other gentlemen with ladies occupied seats on the platform. Mrs. Chant spoke in a very interesting way of her work in the East End of London, which seems to be on the level with the slums of our large cities, and told many instances of the want and misery she had found there.

The lecture was brightened with lighter flashes of wit, as when Mrs. Chant said that the men in this country were so unsuccessful in securing their own rights, that it was no wonder they could give none to women. The need of education, and of sympathetic assistance for the poor was strongly dwelt upon, and the large opportunity for work now open for every one at their very homes was shown and the evening was a very pleasant and a profitable one.

High School Notes.

A small party of 91 members, enjoyed a trip on the river May 31st. The hunger of the party was fully satisfied during the early part of the evening before the moonlight row on the river.

The following take examinations for Boston University: Miss Whitney, E. R. Speare, S. H. Morse; for the Mass. Institute of Technology: R. K. Sheppard, L. R. Moore, E. L. Leeds, E. B. Waite, finals, A. L. Patrick, E. H. Huxley, F. B. Coffin, H. S. Allen, preliminary. These occur this week Thursday and Friday.

The class of '90 held a meeting on Tuesday to appropriate a sum of money for class day and appoint a committee to have charge.

The battalion thought they were well paid for their services on Memorial day by the collation which they obtained at the end.

The next regular meeting of the Lyceum will occur on Saturday, June 7, at 7:30 p. m., in the High School building. There will be no debate but an exhibition of Edison's phonograph will be given. At the end of the exhibition the audience will be allowed to ask questions. As the committee has been to quite an expense and all the expenses have been paid by the scholars of the school, it is hoped there will be a full house.

The officers of the battalion are trying to obtain an appropriation from the school committee to defray the expenses of the prize drill, which will occur on June 14. As yet they are unsuccessful.

Mr. J. A. Gallagher's store 51-2 Park street, Boston, is the best place to buy fresh cut flowers.

THIS WEEK'S WEDDINGS.

HARWOOD-LANCASTER.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Lancaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Lancaster, and Mr. Sydney Harwood, at the Newton Centre Congregational church, Tuesday evening, was a very brilliant affair. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, hydrangeas and other plants, and daisies and white flowers were used in profusion. The seats reserved for the members of the family were marked with knots of daisies, and the bride stood during the ceremony upon a mat of ferns and daisies. Promptly at 7.30 o'clock the organ pealed forth the triumphant strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," and the bridegroom, attended by his best man, Mr. John H. Harwood, entered from a side door, and awaited the coming of the bride. At the same time the bride's procession passed down the main aisle. The eight ushers—Messrs. Frank Potter, Walter Hart, Morton E. Cobb, Charles Hull, Julian Ryan and John K. Taylor of Newton and Messrs. Leonard and Ralph Ahl of Boston—preceded the bride—Miss Mabel Lancaster, and the bridesmaids—Misses Mabel Taylor and Ella Pomeroy of Boston, Misses Bessie Lancaster and Ethel Harwood of Newton. The maid of honor, who walked alone, was Miss Alice Lancaster, a sister of the bride. Following the ushers and the bridesmaids—came the bride, escorted by her father, who also gave her in marriage, and attended by two tiny pages in white, her little nephews, Master Lancaster, P. Clark and Edward P. Clark. Meeting in the chancel, the bride and groom advanced to the altar, where the Episcopal marriage service of the Episcopal church was impressively read by Rev. T. J. Holmes, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. T. Edward Brown of Providence. At the conclusion of the service, the bride and groom were untied the length of the aisle, and the bridal party passed out to the well known strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white faille française with drapery of mousseline de soie. The veil was of tulle, caught with lilies of the valley. Her ornaments were diamonds, and she carried a large bouquet of lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. The maid of honor, Miss Lancaster, wore a pretty gown of white stunged crepe de chine over pink silk. The bridesmaids, Miss Taylor and Miss Pomeroy, wore white crepe de chine over pink silk, the others, Miss Bessie Lancaster and Miss Harwood, wore white crepe de chine over white silk. They all carried bouquets of carnations. Mrs. Lancaster wore a beautiful gown of tulle, white and white brocade and silk, and Mrs. Harwood, wore white crepe de chine over white silk. They all carried bouquets of carnations. Mrs. Lancaster wore a beautiful gown of tulle, white and white brocade and silk, and Mrs. Harwood, wore white crepe de chine over white silk. They all carried bouquets of carnations.

Following the ceremony in the church, a largely attended reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster in Newton. The extensive grounds surrounding the house were brilliantly lighted with calcium lights and presented a fairy-like scene, but inside the decorations were even more elaborate and beautiful. The stairway was a mass of pine, balsam and flowers, the mantels were banked with choice roses, hydrangeas, and other plants, and the walls were decorated with garlands of smilax and the feathery asparagus vine hung and swung everywhere, dotted with roses and carnations. The bride and groom stood to receive the congratulations of their friends in a bower composed almost wholly of these beautiful flowers. The reception was held in a large pavilion built, adjoining the house, in which the supper was served by Lee of the Woodland Park Hotel. The pavilion was dressed with draperies of pale blue and yellow, and the supper table, in the center, was set with magnificent center and side pieces of Catherine Mermel roses, and lighted with many hundred candles in tall silver candelabra. White and Smith's orchestra, which discoursed sweet music throughout the evening, played for the dancing which followed the reception. Shortly after 10 o'clock, the bride and groom departed on their wedding tour. They will be at home at "Sunnyhurst," on Ivanhoe street in Newton on the last two Wednesdays in September. They were the recipients of an almost countless number of elegant and costly gifts, which included cut glass, royal Worcester, silver, quain ornaments and bric-a-brac, which completely filled the room in which they were displayed.

There were some twelve hundred invitations for the church and six hundred for the reception at the house, and among the guests were the prominent people of Newton and Newton Centre, besides many from the other villages, and Mayor and Mrs. Hart of Boston; Mrs. Daniel Ahl, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Niles, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Clark of New Haven; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Doak, Lynn; Mr. and Mrs. A. Strout, Mr. and Mrs. C. Strout, Portland; Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Clark, New York; Rev. and Mrs. G. R. GOW-TOLMAN.

The Unitarian church, West Newton, was the scene of a fashionable wedding Wednesday evening, to which the contracting parties were Miss Myra Fenno Tolman, daughter of ex-Alderman Adams K. Tolman, and Assistant Engineer John L. Gow, U. S. N. The auditorium of the church was completely filled, over 700 persons witnessing the ceremony. The decorations were very tasteful, the pulpit platform being banked with palms and hydrangeas. At 8 o'clock, the bride, a pretty brunette, leaning upon the arm of her father, was preceded by the six ushers, Mr. Frank F. Cutter, Mr. Billings Smith, Mr. Hermon Aborn, Mr. Boylston Williams of Boston,

Dr. John F. Urie, U. S. N., and Assistant Engineer C. H. Hayes, U. S. N., marched through the broad aisle to the chancel, where the groom was waiting, attended by his best man, Passed Assistant Engineer Asa N. Mattice, U. S. N. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of the West Newton Unitarian Church, officiated. The bride was attired in a white faille française, en traine, garniture of duchesse lace, and wore the usual veil. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Highland street, West Newton. It was attended by the family and intimate friends, well known society people of the Newtons, Boston, Waltham and vicinity. Found a Centipede in Her Strawberries. As Mrs. W. N. Furey, of Paris, was preparing some strawberries for dinner she had a very bad scare. The berries were in a large vessel of water, into which Mrs. Furey dipped her hands, and on taking them out was horrified to see a large centipede clinging to one of them. A vigorous shake only served to make it clutch her hand still stronger, and it was only by a hard blow she succeeded in dislodging it. Very fortunately it was so chilled by the water it did not bite her and she escaped uninjured.—Dallas News.

Competition in the Aerolite Market. The meteoric shower that fell in the country west of Mason City is proving a source of much revenue. Telegraphic and mail orders pour in for specimens, and they are selling at from 25 cents to $1 per ounce. Counterfeit meteoric specimens are now numerous, made by burning common bowlders, which are abundant on the prairie, in a hot fire, and dipping them in prepared liquids.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

MR. BELL RESIGNS

On Account of the Marked Discourtesy Shown him by the School Board.

HE GIVES SOME VERY PLAIN FACTS ABOUT THE RECENT REPORT.

To the Editor of the Graphic.

The report of the committee to investigate the scholarship and deportment of the high school is like the state of Texas; it covers a great deal of territory but is sparsely settled. The committee appointed for a specific purpose, have succeeded by the aid of the reports published for the last few years, in giving us a very good history of the school.

When I made the motion asking for an investigation of the scholarship of the high school, I stated that I had received fourteen complaints from that number of families. Dr. Lawrence said that he had received twice that number; Mr. Hornbrook said he had heard many complaints relative to the condition of the school; Mrs. Davis said that stories regarding the poor condition of the school were constantly coming up. After the statements made by the several parties named above, I can place only one construction on the decision of the committee to have a hearing, and that it might not be a farce, I went to a number of those who had made complaints to me and begged of them to be present, so that it would not place me in an embarrassing position. A number promised to be there but afterwards said they did not care to advertise themselves or their children, and to-day two of the gentlemen are regretting very much that they took part, as the boy of one of them has been placed in a very uncomfortable position, and the boy of the other has been catechized for over an hour by the principal and one of the assistants in regard to what his father said. Every one, with one exception, who was at the hearing and had anything to say in the way of criticism, was there at my earnest solicitation.

In making this motion calling for an investigation, I did it advisedly and because I had been approached by so many persons with complaints. If I had remained quiet, I should always have felt that I had done an injustice to the school, an injustice to my constituents and an injustice to myself. I can assure you that it required courage for me to take the stand that I did and make the motion, for it is much easier in this life to be passive than to create an unpleasant feeling as anything of this nature would.

Before making this motion, I had in a quiet way posted myself and by the help of professors in other schools, came to the conclusion that the scholarship of our Newton high school was not what it ought to be. If our scholarship is good, how much satisfaction the committee would have given those interested by publishing the facts, and certainly the parents are entitled to the true inwardness of the result of teaching in the school. There is only one construction that we can place upon this report, and that is that they did not care to publish to the world and advise the parents of the true condition or that they have never investigated it, for they say:

Taking these statistics as good as far as they go, your committee finds that they show no deterioration in the quality of the scholarship of the high school, and may be taken as a fair proof that the work done now is as good as that done in any year of which there is a complete record. When I found that my associates refused to have me on the committee, I came to the conclusion that my motion would have very little sympathy, and that I might not be placed in an uncomfortable position and that I might get at the true state, I had professors in different branches connected with institutions in our sister cities visit our school, and the committee who say that they were not able to arrive at the standing and scholarship would be surprised at the reports that I have and at the position that these professors hold.

Now in regard to the scholarship of the high school, the committee have practically ignored the question. They have gone into the attendance, the number of scholars present, the number who were late, and the number who have entered the Institute of Technology, or taken a collegiate course, but they have forgotten what they were appointed to investigate. When they say that the work of the high school is as good as that done in any year, they may hit the nail right on the head, but it is only a short time since the school board decided that the school was not what it ought to be, and for that reason that the committee made in the teachers and management of the school. "Now, 'up to its usual standard'" is not satisfactory to a large number of parents. If it is up to its usual standard, that standard is very low, for I find on investigation in one class of the present school that not one scholar out of a class of 118 obtained one hundred per cent. in any study.

In English, 118 scholars, the average was 70.2 per cent. Science, 64 scholars, the average was 68.7 per cent. Latin, 20 scholars, the average was 63.5 per cent. Geometry, 64 scholars, the average was 72.0 per cent. French, 39 scholars, the average was 70.8 per cent. Greek, 39 scholars, the average was 70.4 per cent. or an average for the whole examination of 70.5 per cent. Remember that these were taken in rotation and not one omitted.

In looking at these figures carefully, you will see that if a few got a large per cent, a large number must have had a very small per cent. It is such figures as these which will give thinking men an opportunity to know just what the results are at our Newton high school and also show the committee that it is possible to get at the scholarship.

In looking at the condition under which children have been admitted to other institutions of learning, it is appalling and shows that the elementary studies do not receive that attention which they ought in our high school.

No matter how the present scholarship compares with other regimes, it is a question of to-day and of year after year twelve or fourteen boys enter college and they have from ten to fifteen conditions, is there not something about this which is either a discredit to the boys themselves or the instruction?

Then again, when I made my motion, it was not in the interest of the boys who are entering college, but it was in the interest of over four hundred scholars, who are to take up the battle of life and who ought to be so grounded in their elementary studies that when questions of magnitude come up in after life, they will be able to grasp them in such a manner as shall be a credit to themselves and our schools. I was in hopes that this committee would be willing to either say that the scholarship was all that could be desired or that it was not what it ought to be. It is either good or it is not good. I was in hopes that they would follow out the suggestion made at the hearing by a gentleman from Newton Centre and recommend that the City of Newton establish an English High as well as a Latin High school and that over the latter should be a teacher who was thoroughly posted in the classics.

I have refrained from criticizing any of the teachers during this controversy. I have no regrets at the part that I have taken, for I have done it with a conscientious spirit, but I regret that this committee have been obliged to make such a whitewash report. No one who believes in progression can afford to say as they do, that the "wise course seems to be to make the best of the present condition." I do not care to belong to any institution that is simply drifting, and for this reason, I have tendered my resignation as a member of the school committee.

The Best Nursery

C. D. Fisk, Esq., Waltham, Mass.: Dear Sir—In reply to your favor of the 21st, asking about trees and other goods furnished me, will say that after having tried many other nurseries I have found that your goods are far superior to any of them and at a much lower price, and when opportunity offers, I shall take pleasure in recommending your goods as well as fair dealing. Yours truly, Geo. Cook.

There was a fair sized audience at the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Sunday. Mr. Washington Warren had charge of the meeting and spoke from Psalms 19: 1-6. His words were interesting and the time was well occupied in prayer and testimony. Next Sunday, Mr. E. Norcross, General Secretary of the Watertown Association will lead the meeting.

Colorado's Mineral Palace.

The mineral palace now being erected in Pueblo, Colo., will cost about $250,000. It will be of handsome design, the exterior being a series of square columns and beautifully polished stone. The carving will be ornate. All parts of the building will be made of the products of Colorado's mines, the owners in all the counties in the state having sent in their choicest and richest specimens. In the interior will be seen every variety of mineral production from stone and coal to pure gold, the value of which will be at least $750,000.

It is intended to be a permanent exhibit, open every day the year round, and its originators desire to have the choicest specimens of mineral wealth from every state in the Union represented side by side with the resources of Colorado. Building stone, granite and marble are also desired. The building will be lighted by 3,000 incandescent electric lights. It is the intention to reproduce this in duplicate of design and brilliancy of decoration and display, but somewhat reduced in size, as the Colorado mineral exhibit for the World's fair in Chicago in 1892.—New York Telegram.

Devoted to One Book.

Col. Fitzpatrick is a second W. H. Murray. He loves the fields, the brooks and the woods for their own sake, and spends all of his spare time among them. Early last month he went down to Maine on a fishing excursion. The result of his trip he has not yet fully revealed. One thing is certain, he brought back very few fish, and he had rather laughed at than told a lie. So he holds his tongue. He may have caught a large number of fish. If so, he is too modest to tell about them.

"What did you do if you didn't fish, Fitz?" asked a friend.

"I studied all the time."

"What did you study?"

"Oh, I had a book I got in Boston, and devoted all my time to it."

"What kind of a book, may I ask?"

"Certainly; it was a book of flies I bought here in a gun store."—Boston Globe.

Steamer Chairs for Rent.

A firm on Broadway has hit upon a new scheme for making money. Transatlantic passengers have always suffered great inconvenience in buying steamer chairs at the beginning of a trip, and in getting rid of them at the completion of the journey. Realizing that fact, the firm in question has arranged with nearly all the European steamships to provide steamer chairs with detachable tables, which can be rented at $1 for the entire trip. The detachable table is so constructed that a bottle, glass, cup and plate can be fitted into it. The table is mighty convenient to people subject to seasickness, and there is every prospect that the firm which has originated the business will make money, and plenty of it.—New York Mail and Express.

A Remarkable Prophecy.

A remarkable coincidence is related in connection with a blazing ball of meteoric fire which dashed across the state of Iowa almost in an instant Friday night. A man named William Spears, a prophet at Sioux City, had predicted in the afternoon that a moon would go flying across the heavens that evening, and that it would mean that no more rain would fall upon the earth. A brilliant and remarkably bright meteor appeared, and the prophet was so impressed with what he considered the fulfillment of his prophecy that he became insane and was taken to an asylum.—Kingsley (Ga.) Raining Ashes from a Clear Sky.

An American has arrived in this city from Guanajuata, where he was during a rain of ashes that fell in that city. The peculiar phenomenon, according to a statement made to a reporter, began at about 10:30 o'clock in the morning, when ashes started to fall from a cloudless sky, and when there was no wind prevailing near the earth. The lower classes were badly frightened, thinking that the strange phenomenon was the precursor of some dire event. The churches were sought by them, where they offered up prayers to the Creator to save them from destruction.

At times the fall of the gray material from the sky was very thick, resembling materially a snowstorm. The buildings, streets, trees and people were covered with ashes at the conclusion of the peculiar storm. The ash storm was very general in the state of Guanajuata. It is the general opinion that the ashes were wafted by a northeasterly current of air across hundreds of miles of country from the active crater of the Colima volcano. —Two Republics.

Jumbo's Remains at Rest.

Professor Marshall, of Tufts college, received a dispatch from the Hon. P. T. Barnum, saying that Jumbo was on his way from Bridgeport, and would arrive at the Barnum museum in the morning. Preparations were immediately begun for receiving him, and on account of his immense height the entire doorway and stone sills of the museum had to be removed. A four horse team carried him from the Old Colony depot to the college, where Mr. Barnum had sent a gang of workmen to assist in getting him into the museum, and while they were unloading him the students, led by the members of the Glee club, gathered on the museum steps and sang the "Jumbo Canticle," composed by the leader of the glee club, narrating the history and exploits of Jumbo. The work of getting him into the museum was concluded late in the afternoon, when he was placed by the side of the baby elephant, Bridgeport, which will be his permanent resting place, and where he may be seen any afternoon by visitors. —Boston Post.

Kis-ku-dah's Indian Long Grief.

Kis-ku-dah is an Indian now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary. He is almost literally alone in the world, for, though there are other Indians in prison, they are not of the same tribe and speak a different language. But one link binds him to the world, and that is a cowboy who speaks the same tongue, but who has only a few months to stay. Kis-ku-dah is sick in the hospital, where he grieves and mourns day in and day out. For hours he will kneel with his blanket about his head and never move. When the night nurses take their places Kis-ku-dah's face brightens up, for then his cowboy friend, who is a night nurse, comes to him, and they have a friendly talk. "This 'untutored' son pines for liberty; his only thought is of his native plains and hills, and how sweet would be his revenge for depriving him of that liberty." —Columbus Dispatch.

A Youthful Traveler.

James Stanislaus McGregor, a boy of 10, appeared in the Boston and Albany station, at Boston, a day or two ago, bearing a label which stated that he had come all alone from New Mexico, and that the Boston police were expected to take care of him until his uncle came from New Hampshire to claim him. When the police found him he was having a hard fight with some bad Boston boys, who aimed for the contents of his lunch basket. He had succeeded in keeping them off, however, and showed remarkable pluck and ability to take care of himself. He was bright and self contained, and could speak Spanish and Indian, besides English. —Philadelphia Ledger.

A Church Pew with a History.

The pew in old St. Michael's church, Charleston, S. C., occupied by Vice President Morton a few Sundays since has been the property of the Vanderhorst family for many years, and has been occupied in the past by men whose names are familiar to the readers of American history.

The pew was once occupied by George Washington. The Duke of Newcastle, Henry Clay and Gen. Robert E. Lee have also been among its occupants, and rumor has it that Martin Van Buren was a tenant of the same pew. —Cor. Chicago Times.

Suicides in Austria.

An epidemic of sensational suicides has for some time prevailed in Germany and Austria. One of the most recent occurrences of the kind took place in a prominent church in Vienna recently. While the service was in progress a female worshiper was seen to be in great pain and finally gave vent to cries of agony. Upon being questioned she said she had taken poison because of poverty. It was too late to render assistance, and the poor woman died in great pain. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Making the Deaf to Hear.

Dr. Francis H. Brown, of Boston, has devised a plan by which six deaf persons who formerly heard nothing of the sermon now hardly miss a word of it when they attend church. A large sound receiver stands near the preacher, and branch speaking tubes run by way of the floor from it to each of the deaf persons. —New York Evening Sun.

Buried Zulu Fashion.

Bishop Mackenzie, of Zululand, who died on Feb. 9 of enteric fever, gave instructions previous to his demise that his corpse should be buried in Zulu fashion. Accordingly, no coffin was used, but the body was tied up in a blanket in a kneeling position and was thus placed in a hole. —Exchange.

An elephant at Philadelphia died suddenly the other day from enlargement of the heart. Its heart was found to be abnormally large. It more than filled a wash tub and weighed 102 pounds. The big hearted but unfortunate animal was 114 years old.

Arsenic in Wall Paper.

The danger of using hangings or wall paper which contain arsenic was very forcibly illustrated in Berlin not long since by the famous chemist and expert, Dr. Paul Jeserich, the head of the renowned Sunshine laboratory.

A woman and her little child were taken suddenly and dangerously ill without any apparent cause and the family physician was summoned in haste. After a careful examination he decided that his patients had all the symptoms of arsenical poisoning. He did everything in his power to help them, and finally they were removed into another room to see if any change would prove beneficial, and they very soon recovered. Upon going back to their former sleeping place they were again prostrated and once more removed.

Dr. Jeserich was summoned, and he at once attacked the wall paper. He found that the walls carried three layers of paper, having been repapered twice. A most careful examination revealed no trace of arsenic whatever in the two outer papers, but the inner or original covering contained an enormous quantity of the poison. To a surface of twelve square meters, which is about the area covered by wall paper in a room of moderate size, the paper contained twenty grammes of arsenic acid. —Philadelphia Times.

Eye Piece for the Lick Telescope.

The Guntlach optical works of this city have just completed an eye piece for the great Lick telescope. The eye piece is constructed on a perfected theory and is a great deal larger than any before made. Eye pieces of the same pattern are in use in many of the observatories in the country and everywhere excellent results are obtained. The Guntlach glass uses all the light gathered by the large field lens and at the same time covers the area of the larger glass of the telescope. There are two lenses in this eye piece. They are six inches apart. The larger one is called the field lens and is six and one-half inches in diameter.

The other lens is the eyeglass proper. It is three inches in diameter and is composed of three lenses, a double concave, double convex and meniscus cemented together. The field lens is of crown glass. The concave and convex lenses are also of crown glass. The meniscus, or correcting lens, is of flint glass. No other eye piece of anything like equal dimensions has ever been made. The largest now in use is not over two inches in diameter, and that is far above the average size. The light from heavenly bodies seen through the Lick telescope and this eye piece will be 20,000 times as bright as that seen with the naked eye. —Rochester Democrat.

Facts About the Census.

The taking of the census begins on June 2. In cities or towns of 10,000 or more inhabitants the work must be finished within two weeks from the beginning of the work. In the country each voting precinct is a census district, and one man will do the work of that district.

In the city the enumerator will be paid per capita, in the country by the day. The man in the country might ride ten miles to get one head.

People everywhere may as well understand at the start that every question asked by the census man must be answered. It is the United States government that asks the question. Moreover, the answers must be the truth and the whole truth. There is a severe penalty for misleading a census enumerator or telling him a lie.

You will give your name, age, sex, birthplace, nationality, color, business, married or unmarried. If you are an alien you will have to tell that. There is no way to evade the census man. He must do his duty and so must the citizen. —Chicago Tribune.

Amenities of Natural Gas.

A farmer in Indiana has had a singular experience. Natural gas is coming up out of the ground all over his farm, and it is easy to light it in hundreds of places by simply applying a match. Even the water in the farmer's drive well is forced out by the gas, and the family is contemplating a removal from its residence to avoid being blown up. The farmer considers that his farm is entirely ruined, and will doubtless abandon it altogether, unless some way can be devised to control the escaping gas. —New York Commercial Advertiser.

Want Satisfaction Now.

Two men in Whatcom County, Wash., disputed about an ax, the original value of which was fifty cents, but which had deteriorated one-third by use. One of them hid himself to a justice and had the other and the ax brought into court. The case has gone through the justice's court at a cost of $210, and is now in the district court, and the justice's clerk has gone through the ax by breaking the handle while breaking coal. But that is all right; the men do not care for the ax now; they are mad. —West Shore.

Travel on the Brooklyn Bridge.

On an average, 110,000 people pass over the bridge every day on the cars and 10,000 on foot; 3,000 vehicles pass over every day. One foggy day the cars carried 130,000, and the largest number they ever carried was 150,000. The greatest rush is between 5:30 and 6:30 p. m., when 12,000 an hour are carried on the cars. In the morning 10,000 an hour are carried. —New York Tribune.

There have been landed at Granton by the Danish mail steamer Laura, from Iceland, 222 cases and casks containing over 7,000 braces of Iceland ptarmigan, which are really white grouse, valued only at $1,200. During the severe snow storms of winter the ptarmigan come down from the mountainous regions of Iceland to the seacoast in quest of food, where they fall easy victims to the huntsman's gun.

London society is very dull and nobody seems to know why. Thus far there have been only three balls and half a dozen big crushes. Stanley is looked for to enliven things, but he does not seem inclined to emerge at present from his comparative seclusion in Dean Gardens. That melancholy creature, the aesthetic woman has returned upon the scene in London society, and is described as "wearing costumes eccentric in design, violet in color and entirely depressing in general effect."

Catarrh

It is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla — the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health." —Jesse M. Rogers, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emancipated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood." —Charles H. Maloney, 113 River St., Lowell, Mass.

Mr. Knapp says, and he thinks it is true of the other dealers, that he should feel obliged to any one who will report to him any case of abuse to any of his horses, and that proprietors at such places of business cannot see how their horses are being driven.

—Miss May Tomlinson of Bowen street, who has been visiting Dr. Bancroft and family at Concord, N. H., for several weeks, died very suddenly at the last, the first week of acute pleurisy. Her mother was sent for when she was first taken ill some two weeks since, and was with her to the last. Her many friends in this city will be pained to hear of this unexpected termination of her bright young life. The funeral took place from her home on Bowen street.

—Only a brief notice has been given to what will prove a very important feature of the Newton Centre playground, which is the introduction of beds containing native shrubs and flowers, all carefully labelled with their common and botanical names. While Mr. J. R. Leeson was in Leamington, England, last summer, he saw a public garden, given up to the wild flowers, plants and shrubs of England, and it seemed such an admirable thing that on his return he spoke of it to Hon. J. F. C. Hyde, who is probably the greatest authority on native plants in the state, carrying in his mind a perfect encyclopedia of facts about the wild plants of this section, being able to name any variety, and give its family characteristics, nature, and the place where it can be found. Mr. Hyde immediately saw the usefulness of such a feature in the large space secured for the playground, and agreed with Mr. Leeson to take charge of the development of the scheme, and they two will present it to the city. Such a garden would be a liberal education in itself, and be of great assistance to students interested in natural history. The collection will be made as complete as possible, and will furnish abundant illustrations of the plants described in the text-books. There is probably no other man in this section so well fitted to start a collection as Mr. Hyde, and although it will involve a great deal of labor, it is work that Mr. Hyde likes, and to which he has devoted a great deal of his leisure moments for many years. The playground promises to be one of the greatest attractions of the city under the public spirited policy of the men who have it in charge.

—Parents' day called out a large number interested in the children in Miss Cameron's room, and also in Miss Brooks' room on Thursday. All the exercises did credit to both teachers and pupils. The study of birds in Miss Brooks' room was admirable and adapted to draw the children's attention to the habits of birds, their songs and their appearance. Surely no one will forget the crows who saw them on this occasion. Great praise is due Miss Cameron for the attention she has given to the raising of her pupils, a very important branch of education and one heretofore much neglected. A Christmas story was read, many pupils taking part, and so carefully and clearly enunciated and intelligently read that it was very enjoyable to follow the story, which could be done with ease. When witnessing the evidence of painstaking and successful work done in Miss Cameron's room, work not such by any means as could be done by any teacher, but work requiring great skill, knowledge of human nature and character on the part of the teacher, the question came to the mind of one visitor whether it could be a wise economy on the part of our school committee to reduce the salary of the head assistants in our schools as has been done this year.

NONANTUM

—About twenty children will be baptized at the North Church, next Sunday morning.

—The 20th anniversary of the North Church Sunday school will be held Sunday night at 6.30. Address by F. T. Knight of Boston.

—Lights and shadows. Life is made up of them, both are necessary. The shadows that we may appreciate the light. The light that we may not be cast down too much by permanent shade.

—So in our own rooms shades are necessary for our windows that the glare of the noon day sun may not blind us. Soft laces should shield us from the too penetrating sunbeam that comes to bid us good morning, and rich draperies shut out the outside world and screen us when we prepare for slumber. All of which can be obtained at reasonable prices at J. A. Glass & Co., No. 116 Washington St., Boston.

—At this season of the year one or two comfortable Kattan Chairs on the lawn or piazza look very attractive. They are thoroughly weather proof and can be used indoors and outdoors, in winter or in summer. Some beautiful piazza and lawn goods in Kattan, Willow, Cane and Rush can be purchased very low at Palmer's Furniture Co., 48 Canal street, Boston.

—The announcement of Hotel Cutler, Cutler, Maine, in another column, will be read with interest by many. Hay fever here is unknown; the water is delicious, and the temperature seldom rises above 70 degrees in summer. Cutler is noted for its beautiful walks, drives and sails.

Well located on the fine new streets and avenues, on the high healthy table land with a fine outlook for miles, and in a spot conceded by all to be one of the healthiest of Boston's Suburbs.

WABAN, with its fine new stone station, its 36 trains daily to and from Boston, its handsome residences already erected, its new store block now building, its school-house just voted by the City Council, its electric lights, and other modern conveniences too numerous to mention, together with its great NATURAL ADVANTAGES gives Waban, although the youngest of Newton villages, a thoroughly established position and it takes but a glance to convince the most skeptical that in the near future this village will take its place as one of, if not the, most desirable spots in the Garden City.

The lots offered are located on Varick Road, White Oak Road, Neshobe Road, Agawam Road, Beacon and Washington Streets. All the streets have been laid out and built at great expense under the supervision of the eminent landscape engineer, E. W. Bowditch. The lots vary in size from 10,000 feet to 20,000 feet with a good frontage for every lot.

Many of the buyers at our two previous sales have already disposed of their purchases at a profit and others have refused all advances believing in a greater profit in the near future.

Why go South or West, thousands of miles from home, to invest in lands, when such a grand opportunity as this is offered within thirty minutes' ride of Boston, over the best R. R. in New England.

A PICTURESQUE SCENE BY THE BANK OF THE CHARLES RIVER.

Just a bit of Italy broken off by a mighty hand and brought from the sunny shores of the Mediterranean to the stern and rock-bound coast of Massachusetts.

The old peninsula is crumbling, weak with age, and this bit seemed almost worthless, but it is genuinely Italian, all the same, until it is thoroughly engrafted upon the new land and commingles with it. This small section of Italy, taken bodily from the sky to earth, was found in the camp at Waban last Sunday afternoon, just beyond the reach of Boston's sprawling members. The day itself was unmistakable, with its soft, languorous air, vivid sunlight and deep blue sky over all. The beautiful scenic moraine was never intended for New England, even though the ubiquitous Charles, with deep, sluggish water, seemed to linger in the foreground. The curves of the hills were gracefully draped, but scarcely covered by light, filmy foliage. Not an incongruous feature disturbed the scene, where 200 common Italian laborers enjoyed their weekly luxury of an afternoon siesta.

The camp was humble enough, according to American ideas, even for Italians. There was one low flat building covered with black paper, and perhaps a score of booths, peaked like Indian wigwags and walled with green sods. It was a quiet, lazy looking camp, but in spite of the combination of soporific influences the men were not all asleep. Some were patching over the patches on their faded clothes, industriously smoking meanwhile. The dappled shade of the natural grove shifted, and the camp coming to life became varied and interesting.

One man starts a story, another a political discussion, and both are surrounded by grave but interrupting throngs. More pipes are lighted and cigarettes rolled with southern grace. A group of swarthy knights of the shovel, with faces sculptured for the Roman Senate, drink plebeian beer out of even more plebeian tin. Some indulge in more, a numerical game played with the fingers, and others gather near the camp for the more athletic game of tiro, in which large round stones are rolled as far as possible. All the men look their best, for they have spent the forenoon washing and shaving. Then the chief musician is called for, and the DRAWING NOTES OF THE ACCORDION attract general attention. The music becomes more sprightly, and the younger men, forgetting their indolence, join in some of the simpler dances of their own province. In spite of the absence of women and children, in spite of the coarse, roughly mended clothes, in spite of the morning's washing drying upon the bushes, the camp assumes a gala day appearance. The amusements are harmless ones, the comrades, though noisy, are peaceful, and the sight is novel and intensely foreign.

These foreign laborers, who do only the commonest work, are not types of Italians, but only of a class of poor, illiterate, Italian farmers. They live in a poor, uncivilized fashion in this country, but claim that it is luxury to their life at home, much as they love their native country. But the blood that flows in their veins is warm, Roman blood, even if degenerated, and manifesting itself in their rich coloring, and in many cases, really handsome faces. No 200 dirt-diggers of any other nationality would compare in good looks with those at the Waban camp. The foreman, Luigi, looks like the ideal hero of the bull fight, although quite well dressed after the American fashion, with clean linen and light felt hat. Luigi is the handsomest man in camp, and would be noticeable anywhere. As night approaches, the steward deals out the supplies for the evening meal. Macaroni and good bread are the most abundant provisions, to which are added some cheap meats, and perhaps vegetables. The turf lodges serve as kitchens, with three stones for a fireplace and the opening at the ridgepole for a chimney. Most of the men cook the food, and in the simplest fashion, though sometimes one man will cook for a mess of five or ten, and take more pains with his dishes. Simple as it is, supper consumes several hours' time before all have cooked and eaten all they wish. Meanwhile the musician has been provided for, his elastic instrument expanded, and on upon the night air falls the notes of some plaintive Italian melody. Singers join in with his accompaniment. Songs are sung of love, of war and of patriotism, vigorously but not without a certain charm for the listener. Some quiet parties sit long in the darkness, telling stories in the native tongue. The old men boast of the early prowess and the young men of the deeds of the fathers and grandfathers. Occasionally the voices and music together rise to a confused babel of sound and then both together die away to the suggestion of a murmur, so rising and falling far into the night. Reluctantly one by one, the men grope their way to bed. They seem loth to go, and no wonder, for a hundred sleep where 10 Americans would feel crowded. Like voluntary sardines the sleepers pack themselves in tiers of bunks—"double-deckers"—with scanty straw mattresses, or no mattresses at all, and so crowded that each occupant can strike elbows with his neighbors, and as easily reach to the boards above. In the narrow alleys between the bunks canvas hammocks are swung, and every available corner is forced into use.

The superintendent of the grading of streets and house lots at the new suburb of Waban is Mr. Clark, who has done a good deal of work with Italian laborers. "I think the Italians are capable of becoming a very valuable class of workmen," he says, "and some of these at work for us are skilled artisans. For the work here we pay $1.40 a day, and for it the men work hard. As they learn American ways of living and use better food, they are capable of working as hard as anybody. The neighbors about here were very much disturbed when they heard that we would employ Italians, but I don't think that there has been the slightest trouble from our men, and I know there has been no complaint. They don't fight or steal, and stay closely in camp and work willingly, and, as fast as they learn how, intelligently. I believe that in the future they will do most of the work and shove work into England. But then, we can't pretend to keep track of their names, and each one is represented upon our books by a certain number."

The gangs of Italian laborers are increasing, and Gypsy camps like that at Waban will soon disappear. A professional cook and a regular boarding house system is taking the place of the individual cuisine, and Italians are "broken," as their padrones say, to American methods of work, and are learning the English language. Some are even forsaking their old names or are anglicizing them. Thus the bits of Italy are becoming lost in the conglomerate of the United States, losing with their identity their picturesque features.—[Boston Sunday Herald.]

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful
consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms
and communications of every kind whether com-
Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

What Do You Want A Tariff For?

Here's a go. A big kick is made against the increase in the tariff on cement, which is evidently put on to help
the industry in Rockland, Me., to the injury of the users of cement everywhere.
But a writer in the New York Tribune tells these kickers that it is all right, for we are going to make cement in this country ourselves. He says:

"First, That the Bureau of Statistics
reports show that the manufacture of Portland cement in this country, encouraged by the election of a Republican Administration, has begun to affect imports, which show a decrease for the present year.

Second, The Geological Survey of the United States shows that there exists
an abundance of the best material, widely distributed over the whole country, which is adapted to the manufacture of Portland cement, and that in a number of places Portland cement is actually made fully equal to any imported.

Third, Portland cement of a character far better than any imported brand is made in Pennsylvania from American material, and has been used and is used,
on such works as the New York aqueduct,
the Drexel Building of Philadelphia, the sewerage systems of Philadelphia, Pittsburg and New York, and upon important enterprises in all parts of the country, in competition with, and in preference to the imported.

Fourth, The only piece of work that stood at Johnstown was built of American cement, made from American material, namely, the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge, which stood the entire pressure of the flood."

Now, if that is so, why in creation do
the cement men want the tariff raised?
If we have "an abundance of the best material, widely distributed over the whole country," why can't we meet the world in a free market? If nature has given us the best advantages, why are we afraid of foreign competition? If the Tribune man is correct, then there is no need of any tariff at all. If he is not correct, then the consumers of cement
ought to have the advantage of a cheap foreign market, without any increase of duty. It would be a good plan to take these Rockland manufacturers by the right of eminent domain, for the public good, support them in luxury and idleness,
and let cement come in free.

Lodge's Consistency.

Cabot Lodge voted to raise the duty on glass chimneys, because he wanted to help the Massachusetts glass manufacturers. He voted against the free raw material which our iron manufacturers
wanted in order to save themselves.
How long has a glass manufacturer been better than an iron manufacturer. Why is the home market made by glass workmen better than the home-market made by iron workmen?

Philadelphia Sentiment.

Pennsylvania is a pretty stiff protectionist State and it furnishes the sphinx-like Quay, chairman of the Republican national committee, who lives up to the motto of Senator Ingalls, chairman of the national senate, that "the decadence and the golden rule have no place in politics." But in Philadelphia
the tariff reformers got up a tremendous meeting last week and the workmen in the woolen mills, who turned out in great numbers, expressed their opinions
in these resolutions:

Whereas, both political parties have promised to correct the inequalities and discriminations of the present tariff
laws, which, by placing undue burdens
upon the raw materials of our industries
and the necessities of life, destroy our opportunities for work and reduce the wages of labor; and whereas, the party
now in control in Congress, instead of redeeming its pledges and keeping faith with the workmen, is attempting to foist upon the American people a most iniquitous measure, commonly known as the McKinley bill, which, by increasing the inequalities and discriminations, will strengthen monopoly, destroy our industries and crush labor;
therefore, we, workmen of Kensington,
in mass meeting assembled.

Resolve, That we cannot too strongly denounce the McKinley bill as a dangerous measure nor too earnestly protest against the passage by the United States Senate,
and that we hereby give notice that we will not be satisfied with anything short of free raw materials and such a corresponding reduction of general tariff rates
as will make living cheaper and give us a chance to enter foreign markets with our products, as well as to keep and control our own, knowing full well that only by these means can the toilers secure steady work and good wages.

Do You Use Glass.

One of the infant industries, which is furthered by the protectionist nurses is the glass manufacture. They have a pretty stiff tariff already by which, on the average, every importer who brings two sheets of glass into this country must leave one of them with the government for the sake of getting the other through the custom house. Their business is so snug that they formed a trust last November, and within four months put up the price by four per cent.
different movements, about 20 per cent. in all.
This increase comes out of the people
and goes into the profits of the glass manufacturers. But the McKinley committee thought the people should pay further tribute and so they proposed this schedule, and the Republican majority voted it through and shut off debate:

	Present duty.	Proposed duty.
Window-glass, 10 by 15,	57.5	75.7
" " 16 by 24,	115.4	123.1
" " above that,	132.3	138.0

Then the trust held a meeting and agreed with dealers who control 70 per cent of this glass sold beyond the Alleghenies that none of them should buy outside of the trust and none of the trust would sell to a dealer outside of the "jobbers association." Then they voted to shut down their factories June 14. That is the style of business which flourishes under the promise even of the protection in the McKinley bill. "Protection" for trust; doubtless it is, but robbery of the people. The ninth district did not send Mr. Candler to Congress to support such business as this.

Up They Go.

Up go the prices of woolen goods under the McKinley bill. Here is the little juggle proposed with dress goods
for women and children, specific and ad valorem rates being reduced to ad valorem
terms:

	Present duty.	Proposed duty.
Part-wool goods,
Costing 10 cents a yard,	85	116
Costing 15 " " "	68	103
Costing 20 " " "	75	90
All-wool goods,
Costing 15 cents a yard,	100	125
Costing 20 " " "	85	100
Costing 30 " " "	70	80

You will notice that as the price of the goods goes up, the proportionate advance of duty is smaller. That is, the protectionist will have it out of his pocket for the cheaper goods which are used by the poorer people and make them bear more than their share of the taxes.

Here's another table for cloakings and suitings for women, figured in the same way:

	Present duty.	Proposed duty.
Cotton corduroys, $0.16	35	67
Cotton velvet, " "	40	63
Overcoat linings, " "	72	142
Astrakhan, " "	80	180
Astrakhan, " "	70	172
Silk plushes, " "	50	125
Worsted, " "	67 1-2	130
Woolens, " "	55	117
Woolens, " "	115	117

Has anybody heard that Mr. McKinley or any protectionist has tried to put up the wages of the people who must pay these advanced prices? Where is the money coming from? Perhaps Mr.
Candler will have it out of his private pocket if the ninth district will send him once more to vote for such extortion.

A Protectionist Kicker.

Timely remarks from the Boston Commercial Bulletin, protectionist:

If American capital and American labor cannot produce cheap velvets, such as the poorer working-girls use for their holiday garments, without a duty of 143
per cent, they had better be produced outside the United States. If American ingenuity and American industry cannot produce knives without a duty of from 90 to 125 per cent, our Connecticut brethren would do well to stop their exports and go into a more congenial business.
If American capital and American labor,
which is to-day producing cut-glass of such superior color and workmanship that English gentlemen are furnishing their sideboards from Boston dealers,
if this same American industry cannot produce vases, opal shades and lamp chimneys without a duty ranging from 224 to 450 per cent, the American glass industry had better be abandoned for the benefit of all concerned.

Why Not Bumblebees?

It is reported with positiveness that the senate will give a bounty on maple
sugar when it votes on its tariff bill.
This is a logical outcome to the sugar bounty in the McKinley bill. Now it only remains to give a bounty on bumblebees' honey. Every country-boy knows that this honey is by far the sweetest of any that is made, but the quantities produced are too small for an established industry. If the protectionist statesmen at Washington are determined to close our iron mills and ruin
our woolen factories, why can't they give us a little consolation by a bounty
on our bumblebees, and make it big?
Bumblebees are a home product. There's nothing alien, exotic or allied to pauper labor about them. They are hardy and vigorous, especially at the "business end." They are beautiful in the dawn, active as the wind and fragrant as the rose in the shattered vase whose odor clings to it still. They are already acclaimed. It would give employment to a large number of people to raise a small quantity of honey, and thus would be established an added home market for the farm products of the West, for the coal and iron mines of Pennsylvania, for the wool-growers of Ohio, for the silk weavers of Paterson—for we who should raise bumblebees' honey would demand the finest wool and the richest silk. Considering the modesty of the wool polytechnic,
we might start with a bounty of ten dollars a pound on the honey. Nobody but Andrew Carnegie, who makes $1,500,000
net profit a year, and his fellow-millionaires could buy it, but there couldn't be much produced. They could consume it all, and lots of Massachusetts people could keep a bumblebee apiece. Bumblebees forever!

THE SOUTHERN QUESTION.

WHAT ONE MINISTER THINKS OF THE BLOODY SHIRT POLITICIANS.

The New York Mail and Express was roundly denounced from the pulpit of the twenty-third street Baptist church,
New York, by Rev. Thomas Dixon, jr., Sunday. The congregation burst forth into applause which showed how little sympathy the fire-eating newspapers of to-day may expect from the public, when they try to hold up a harless parading of confederate flags as a sign of treason. Mr. Dixon said:

"Hear this quondam editor shriek for an army of a million men to march on Richmond! For what? To rob the dying of the memory of the dead. Such men are neither brute nor human; they are ghouls; twenty-five years have rolled away since those awful days of the war.
Peace and prosperity onward flow over mountain and plain and sea. And now in the midst of all these things this little tin soldier wakes up suddenly and wearies the ears of heaven and earth
with his little horn. (applause.)

Keep such papers from your homes as you would a pest. If you want any valuable literature use the bald vulgarity
of Swift or the naked realism of Zola.
It will be less dangerous than the hatred and bigotry and malice and falsehood of such a sheet wrapped up in a Scripture text.

Men of the north, and men of the south, we are brethren. Let us hear today the voices of the heroic dead. Let them speak for peace and for harmony. The brave and true never fight after the battle is closed. The time has come for us to take each other by the hand and crush those influences that seek to perpetuate strife for a base, ignoble purpose. God help us that we may have, in deed and truth, one glorious, united nation."

A box of Ayer's Pills has saved many a fit of sickness. When a remedy does not happen to be within reach, people are liable to neglect slight ailments and, of course, serious illness
follows they have to suffer the consequences.

FOR THE

BLOOD, LIVER AND KIDNEYS.

This great constitutional remedy has been on the European market for over twenty years, is superior to all others, and proven the greatest Blood Purifier and System Renovator ever compounded by medical skill. Nothing can equal it for putting the vital portions of the body in condition. If your liver is affected do you stop to think how, or what your liver is? The liver is subject to more or less little pains or aches. This organ is the sponge of the body and is continually soaked full of blood rich in poisons. Its purpose is the secretion of certain digestive and cathartic elements known as bile, and the transformation of those products of digestion which are absorbed into the blood and carried into the liver before they enter the general circulation and assist in nourishing the body. Inactivity, then, produces numerous diseases. So by using Lawton's Vegetable Compound your liver will be free from all disease. It is also absolutely necessary to know what and where are your kidneys. There are two kidneys, one on each side of the backbone. They are the only organs that purify the blood of the uric acid waste in the system. Every drop of blood courses through a great many times a day, just as through the heart. The waste matter which they should take away contains deadly poison which, if retained, causes fatal results. Sixty-five gallons of blood per hour, in the average man, passes through the kidneys, and to purify it they must be in perfect health. The kidneys are filled with many thousand hair-like tubes. These tubes run into every part of the kidney, and as the blood flows through that organ, the urine passes into these tubes, and is drained into the bladder. If these little tubes are diseased, and the uric acid is not removed, and instead of this poison coming through the blood or the albumen, which is really the life of the blood, comes through these walls and escapes with the urine; in other words the nerve action is entirely wrong, and instead of taking the poison out of the blood the life of the blood is taken out and the poison remains.

LAWTON'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

By its immediate action upon these vital organs thoroughly cleanses, renovates and restores them to their normal condition.

GRANITE STATE PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

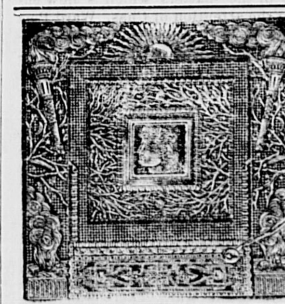

The question of homes and the methods of procuring them is one of the most vital that men have to deal with. The great mass of our people struggling under limited incomes are obliged to use economy in almost all directions to save out of their earnings sufficient to be of much benefit to them in acquiring the same. Co-operative banks have been the result of the workings of public-spirited men of the past; and their step has been "improved," making the accumulations of small savings valuable in the application toward certain specific objects, as a boon to any community. The Granite State Provident Association has made this improvement, and its plan, which is unique is original with us, of which the above club is a part. To say they have taken a decided step in this direction it is not desired to create the impression that the object of their work is a philanthropic one. But, if it does procure a saving or a more economical use of the funds of the people of limited means, it certainly is valuable in its action and is worthy of the consideration of all.

—The Rev. T. R. Fales of Waltham was the founder of Grace church, Newton. It will interest our readers to know that a unique celebration in his honor took place last Monday in the Episcopal chapel at Paddock and the Episcopal clergy to the number of over one hundred, met at the Hotel Brunswick for congratulatory addresses to Mr. Fales and Dr. Lambert, both of whom having spent over 25 years in the ministry. Dr. Lambert being too ill to be present, the host of the occasion was Mr. Fales, whose address was singularly interesting. Mr. Fales remains in Waltham in charge of the parish, until his successor is elected, after which he becomes Rector Emeritus.

—Children's Sunday at Eliot church called out a large congregation at the morning service. The church was beautifully trimmed with rhododendrons, which were furnished by Mr. Chaffin, and other flowers. Two children were christened, and the sermon by Rev. Mr. Calkins was especially for children, and very interesting. The texts were "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business," and "Lord what wilt Thou have me to do?" The Sunday school anniversary exercises were held in the afternoon, a report of which is given elsewhere, and in the evening Rev. Reuben Thomas delivered one of his very forcible sermons on the doctrine of election.

—The Lowell Evening Citizen says: Mr. Walter U. Lawson might stagger an Englishman if he signed the hotel register as he did the camp record last week. After his name there came the letters A. C. A.; W. B. C.; L. C. C.; and N. B. C. But the letters did not detract from his democracy; they simply showed him to be the same zealous lover of aquatic he was when with one or two more, he organized the Vesper Boat Club. He established the Lawrence canoe club, and is a member of the Newton club. He lives in a fine old house in Newton, an ideal place; lives a bachelor's life; but Newton's gain was Lawson's loss, for Lawson was always to be relied upon to put his shoulder to the wheel when there was work to be done.

—There was a fine observance of "Children's Day" at the Methodist church last Sunday. The church was elaborately and beautifully decorated. Ten children, presented at the altar by their parents in the morning service, were dedicated to God in Christian baptism, after which the pastor, Dr. McKewen, preached an appropriate sermon on a large and interested congregation. In the evening a floral concert by the Sunday school, admirably arranged and conducted, delighted a full house. Both the church and Sunday school are growing in numbers and interest. Several families have recently joined, and a number have lately presented themselves as seekers of religion. The school, with other Methodist schools of Newton, will join a Mammoth picnic excursion from Boston to Lake View camp-ground, South Framingham, the 17th of June.

—The annual June festival of the Eliot church was held Thursday evening in the chapel. A collation was served, after which an entertainment was given by a humorist and Mother Goose's melodies, the characters of which were represented by children. A large number were present.

—City Marshal Richardson and Officers Connelley, Caffrey, and Hagen, with several places last Friday evening, including those of Carney, Thomas Mullen and John Boyle, Adams street, and Anna Hart, West Street. No liquor was found except at the last named place where the police secured four gallons of whiskey.

—The comments of the Boston and other papers on the alleged vandalism in the Public Library have been very amusing, especially the calls for the severe punishment of the "vandals," who were probably averaged five years, and the damage was hardly worth speaking of. These alleged initiators of Harvard students must be very precocious youngsters, especially if probably none of them ever heard of that institution. But the story made a very nice sensation.

—The residence of George Brett, Park street, was entered by thieves about 9.30 o'clock Tuesday evening, and jewelry valued at about $150 was taken. The house of Col. J. N. Kellar, Park street, was also entered, but the intruders left, as their noise woke up the children, who were asleep in one of the chambers. It is said that a man was seen entering another residence on the same street and that later he came out, joined two other men and that the three got into a carriage and drove rapidly. As soon as possible after the exploits of the burglars, the police were on hand and have been actively engaged on the cases. It is probable that the guilty parties will be apprehended.

—Thomas Starr, formerly residing on Watertown street, near the Watertown line, has been missing from his home since the evening of May 16. His wife says: "My husband went out of the house at 7.30 o'clock, Friday evening, May 16, and that the last we have heard of or seen of him, he was intoxicated at the time, and in fact, had been drinking all the week. Before leaving the house the last time he had paid two or three visits to a house up the street, and each time he returned he was drunker and worse for liquor." It is said by some that Starr has skipped for England, accompanied by a female. His wife fears that some evil has befallen him. There is a rumor also to the effect that he had a large amount of insurance on his life.

—It is proposed to form a social club of the gentlemen connected with the Channing church meetings will be held once a month, when a light repast will be spread and addresses will be made by prominent laymen connected with the Unitarian denomination, and remarks follow by the members. At stated intervals a ladies' night will be introduced, when a most elaborate entertainment will be given. It is intended to invite every gentleman who believes in liberal Christianity, whether they attend church or not. In accordance with the very general feeling existing for the formation of such a club, the following committee were appointed at a meeting held Thursday evening to draft a set of rules and report at an adjourned meeting: Alvin Bradley, C. B. Coffin, C. F. Fewkes, Chas. E. Lord, Geo. B. Jones.

—Newton will have a grand concert to be given at Eliot Hall, Thursday evening, June 19, by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Mr. E. Fiedler, violinist; Mr. Leo Schultz, cello; Mr. A. Goldstein, contrabass; Mr. S. Kronberg, piano; E. Heindal, flute; assisted by the following well known popular artists, Madame Nellini, prima donna, soprano; Mrs. Ella Cleveland Fenderson, contralto; Mr. S. Kronberg, baritone, and Mr. A. Goldstein, pianist. Judging from the program which is published on page 4, there is no doubt but that it will be one of the highest class concerts ever given in this city. This will probably be the last season of the season to hear the above mentioned artists. The price of tickets are 50 cents each, all seats reserved. For sale in Newton at Hubbard & Procter's drug store.

—A very pleasant event of the week was the marriage on Wednesday evening of Miss Grace Whitman of Church street to Mr. Joel Edward Lawrence of Mt. Ida. The ceremony took place quietly at the residence of the bride in presence of family connections only. Rev. A. McKewen, D.D., of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawrence, parents of the groom, gave an elaborate wedding reception at their home on Cambridge street, where a large number of guests were entertained. The bride wore a cream white India silk, trimmed with duchess lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The newly wedded couple stood on a mat of daisies in the corner of the room which had been converted into a floral bower. In the canopy overhead was interwoven a large horseshoe, composed of white daisies. The chandeliers were trimmed with argus ferns and smilax, and the mantels banked with choice roses and rhododendrons. In the recesses of the apartment were placed ferns and potted plants, the latter forming a feature of the decoration in the hall. In the pretty music room, Mrs. Lawrence was stationed and discoursed sweet music during the evening. The presents, of great variety and beauty, were displayed in a room up stairs. The guests were formally presented by the ushers, Messrs. George W. Barber, A. R. Weed and G. M. Weed, and afterwards escorted to the dining room where a dainty collation was served by Paxton. At the close of the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

Lassell Pupils' Concert.
The gymnasium at Lassell Seminary was converted into a concert hall last night, on the occasion of the pupils' Commencement concert, and it made a very pleasant one. The light, reflected upon the walls of brown wood, had a melancholy and richness very different from the usual glare and very much in keeping with the refined and delicate character of the selections. The light dresses of students who sat on the right-hand side, near the front went further to enliven the dimness of the room with its wood paneling, and altogether the scene was as charming as a setting of a very charming musical program was excellent. The songs, both those of the Orphean Club and those of the mixed chorus, were well received, but perhaps the most popular selections of the evening were a sonata from Beethoven by Miss Thores, which was executed with great delicacy, and a quaint little guitar piece, a godelledy, by Miss Snyder. A spring song by Miss Peabody, with a violin obligato, also received merited applause, and two piano pieces by Miss Sargeant were well rendered. The concert cannot be dismissed without particular praise of the singing of "Oh, Woe Thou in the Cauld Blast," by the Orphean Club, in which was shown great sympathy with the spirit of the song as well as skill in the technique.

—Newton people know of the merits of the Moosilauke, at Breezy Point, N. H., which is one of the best kept houses in the mountains, and the managers announce that a limited number of engagements can be made for July and September at equitable rates.

THOSE TERRIBLE VANDALS.

WHO DID SUCH DAMAGE AT OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Boston papers have contained terrible tales this week of the damage done to our public library, by some unknown persons, who were thought to be imitating Harvard Students and the alarmed Newton readers thought that their beloved library building had been terribly injured, as it was said to have been painted red inside, valuable books thrown on the floor and mutilated, many dollars worth of postage stamps destroyed, desks ruined by planes and chisels, and they were hardly comforted when told that two stalwart policemen had been detailed to work up the case. Two Boston papers even had editorials on the "vandals" and urged that their high social position should not be allowed to screen them.

These stories caused a great number of indignant citizens to visit the library, to see the work of destruction, among others a GRAPHIC reporter, who interviewed Miss Thurston, the librarian, with the result of showing how great stories are made from little causes.

Miss Thurston began to smile when the subject was broached, and her laughter was echoed by that of her assistants as extracts from the Boston papers were handed round.

The great amount of postage stamps destroyed by the vandals was in reality one two cent stamp.

The valuable books mutilated and thrown on the floor were represented by one covered magazine which was found on the floor but not injured.

The janitor's desk that was so badly planned off turns out to have been a table, and as no plane belongs to the library it was not planned, or even perceptibly marred.

The red and black paint stories did have some foundation, the janitor had in his room two small cans, one of black and one of red paint. These had been examined by the "vandals" and there were perhaps half a dozen spots on the floor, where paint had been spilled, but a little turpentine disposed of that. The "painting red" sensation was also spoiled.

Two hammers and chisel were in the room, and the chisel had evidently been used in an attempt to pry open the metric system case, by which a glass inside had been broken, although the case was not opened.

This was the damage done, and Monday morning two windows were found open, and it is now conceded that the "terrible vandals" were probably children five or six years old, of whom there are a great number in the rear of the Lancaster block. Finding a window open on Sunday, they entered and investigated what they saw, doing some childish mischief, such as children always do if left to themselves.

The next morning two windows were found open, but no evidence that they had been forced, and hereafter greater care will be used in fastening them. It is a pity to spoil so many dispatches and editorials if these children were imitating the Harvard vandals, they probably did it ignorantly.

Miss Thurston said that no Newton boys who ever visited the library would ever be guilty of such things as described in the sensational dispatches, for the hundreds of boys who come there are orderly and well-behaved, and give the librarian or assistants no trouble. The past year has seen a very marked improvement in this respect, and the boys are as well behaved as the older people. So much has been said of the boys who come there, that the record of one of our young boys of Newton, that they are orderly and well-behaved, and give the librarian or assistants no trouble. The past year has seen a very marked improvement in this respect, and the boys are as well behaved as the older people. So much has been said of the boys who come there, that the record of one of our young boys of Newton, that they are orderly and well-behaved, and give the librarian or assistants no trouble.

Mementos of Charles Ward.

The collecting of mementos of the war, is one of the matters which is now engaging the attention of Chas. Ward Post, 62, G. A. R., and at its meeting last evening Comrade Kingsbury presented in behalf of the family of the Bible and Sergeant Major's warrant of Chas. Ward, for whom the Post is named, with the following very appropriate remarks:

Commander: The more remote the date of our military service, the more stronger the ties of comradeship and more highly is prized every memento of that service about which cluster the associations of common danger and privation and the joy of victory. It was not love of adventure, nor the promptings of hate, nor the power of ambition which changed the hearts of so many boys in the days of the war. There was in the awakening love of country a sentiment deep and abiding, a purpose pure and holy, which gave motive to action and filled our annals with heroic names. Men whom we know were of this number and the honored name of one of them is borne on the charter and banner of this post.

You have heard the story of his young life, his fidelity to every duty, his willing spirit and noble aims. Aside from the teachings of father and mother who led their household rightly, he was a student of the Bible. That book was his constant companion and its precious words comforted him in the hour of greatest trial. In my hands the copy he carried opened almost of itself and as if accustomed so to do, to a chapter in which the Psalmist of old expressed his confidence in God, and again to a chapter in Ephesians in which the complete armor of a Christian is described. What wonder then that from such inspiration his life was so noble and his death so triumphant.

It is my privilege in the name of an older brother of his family, John Ward, to present to the Post, this Bible which he carried during his army life, a gift from his mother, with a message from her to him inscribed on the fly leaf. I am also empowered to present with the Bible the warrant of Sergeant Major which he held at the time of his decease. Comrades, let us forever treasure these mementos, the one his guide and comforter, the other showing the post of duty where he fell.

Commander Whitney responded in very appropriate words of appreciation, and the adjutant was instructed to make appropriate acknowledgments for the reception of the valuable mementos.

Cooke, sister of the bride, and Miss Kate Babcock of Salem. The bride was attired in a white china silk, and wore the usual long tulle veil. Immediately after the ceremony, Rev. and Mrs. Aubin departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside at 122 Gorham street, Lowell.

—The recipients of a large number of beautiful and valuable wedding gifts.

—The Harvards visit this city Saturday afternoon, the first time in many years, to the conclusion of the nine representing the Newton Base Ball association. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock and will be played on the new grounds, Watertown and Walker streets. The university nine is undoubtedly one of the strongest amateur associations in the State, and its games at home always attract large crowds. It is to be hoped, therefore, that a generous number of spectators will be on hand to cheer the club and its visitors on an enthusiastic reception. The management of the Newton Base Ball association deserves encouragement, for it presents only first-class attractions and has placed a nine in the field whose personnel is in keeping with the best sentiment of the lovers of the national game. An interesting contest may be anticipated.

—The concert given by the Mt. Ida Council, Royal Arcanum, was one of the best entertainments ever given in this city. The hall was crowded to its full capacity. Miss C. Mabel Beaman played the violin in place of Miss Kelly as announced, and the artistic skill of the soloist was evident from the start and to the end. The audience was so admirably speaking in mild terms, as the reception she received was very enthusiastic. The Elmont Male Quartet, Miss Lincoln and Miss Kyle, gave some admirable rendered selections. Mr. H. B. Day, the new choir-master and organist of Grace church gave two very finished piano solos, and Miss Mae Fessy some enjoyable songs. The Mt. Ida Council may well be satisfied at the success of their effort to please their friends, and the ice cream and strawberries served after the concert was very liberally patronized.

—The signal corps, made up of four privates and one command of Sergt. Thomas Weston, Jr., is an important auxiliary of the Newton High School battalion and it attracted a great deal of attention Memorial day. It will be of invaluable assistance in case of actual service or in field movements. As an example, if the battalion was stationed on the summit of Institution Hill and a squad of the signal corps stationed on the top of Mt. Water, a message could be quickly sent between these points in a very brief space of time. The signals are those of the American-Morse code, three distinct motions being used for each letter of the alphabet. The signals are those of the telegraphic language, based on the dot, dash system. Different colored flags are used against different colored backgrounds. The corps is progressing in its work and acquiring proficiency. On Monday afternoon it was drilled thoroughly by the military instructor of the battalion on Farlow Park. On Saturday afternoon, the occasion of the picnic at West Newton, the corps will give an exhibition of the signal system. A message will be written by some person present, and to test the efficiency of the corps, it will be transmitted to a squad stationed in the outskirts of the field by the signal system. After the message has been received it will be written out in regular form and returned to the writer, who will state whether it is a literal transcription of the original written message. This will undoubtedly prove a novel and interesting feature of the exercises.

It was not insured. The fire started in a henry adjoining the stable, and was not discovered until the roof of the latter building was in a blaze. Most of the contents of the barn, including horses and carriages were saved. A patent poultry breeder was used in the henry and the heat from that may have set fire to the woodwork. HOW A BOY BROUGHT HIS PARENTS TO TERMS.

"I've a good notion to run away," said Burt Johnson hotly to himself, as he sat down on a fallen log at the side of a brook. "I would," said his Uncle Harry, who sat on the other end of the log, hidden from his nephew's sight by a clump of bushes.

"I was about your age when I came to the conclusion that I wasn't being treated with the consideration due to my twelve years. The greatest wrong I had to bear up under was that my parents had bought a ranch out in the foot hills, just back of Oakland, and moved out there, and expected me to take hold and work like a Chinaman. I had never done anything but go to school and fish off the end of a dock, or go in swimming, and amuse myself generally. My brother Fred, who was two years older than I, took to the farm work quite tamely, and learned to plow and never seemed to care how much work he did. I had always been called a smart boy and felt that I was born to become a great man.

And then another thing vexed my soul. My father bought me a fine double-barreled shot-gun on my birthday, and my mother gave me a handsome game bag and other accoutrements. That would have been all right if father hadn't said:

"Now, you can supply us with game. The ravine is full of quail, rabbits, meadow larks and blackbirds." That rankled I tell you. I used to shirk taking the gun all I could, for I thought it was a man's business to provide for the family, and many a time when I had taken it, I threw nearly all the game I had killed under a bush out of spite. I was quick, good shot, and out folks used to wonder why I brought so little game when the chattering was alive with it.

My father and mother and brother Fred were up before daylight, but I was never called until six o'clock which was another hardship, as I could have gotten through my work much earlier if I had risen sooner, but I determined to suffer this in silence, too. Sometimes my delicate little mother would with her own slim hands carry the food to feed my rabbits, and this was another grief, for it showed that they did not realize nor appreciate my age and strength as they should. They considered me a baby yet.

The climax came at last. Our ranch being a new one, we had no artesian well, and the water in the ravine dried up completely in the summer and we had to drive our stock up the bed of the ravine about a mile for water, twice a day, and bring that for the family use in a cask once a day. Of course I had to do all the driving while my father and brother had the fun of filling casks. I was the slave to do that all summer long.

The day of the climax, I had been down to Oakland and drove Dick with our brand new light express wagon, which had bright red wheels and a dark blue body. When I came back it was just supper time and I left Dick standing untied out in front of the house, while I went in to supper. Dick got tired of standing, or wanted a drink, and he started away up the bed of the ravine with the wagon, and he went about half a mile when he stuck fast in a narrow part, and there he staid.

Father asked where Dick was, and I answered that he was all right, but to make a long story short, it took me three long days to dig that wagon loose, and haul it back myself, for I had to do it as a punishment. The point was all scratched and the looks of it spoiled. I was too tired after this to run away, beside my father was so good to me that I didn't like to go. She would slip out of the house and up the ravine with something nice to console me.

But the very next morning she showed herself in her true colors. It doesn't do for a boy to trust too much in his mother, she is apt to fall him at a critical moment. Father and Alfred had gone to their plowing for this season, and just as the hill, and I felt pretty safe, so I didn't get up at six o'clock, nor seven, nor indeed until nine. I had resolved to break the bonds of slavery and assert myself. About half-past nine I sauntered out to the dining-room. There was nothing on the table to eat, not some cold ham, bread and butter, milk and strawberries. There had been no pancakes and honey. I went to the kitchen; my mother sat there shelling peas. I have often wished I had taken a look at her before I spoke. She had a way of shutting her lips so tight that two dimples showed at the corners, and she had stood all the while going to. I kicked brave, who came wagging his tail, and the cat who came rubbing against me, and said: "I want my breakfast."

"It is there on the table," said mother, quietly. "You can't play that sort of a thing on me any more. I've picked all the old bones and eat all the dry old crusts I'm going to. I want some hot cakes."

"Very well, bake them then, or get up in time to eat with the rest." "I'll do neither," I said. "It is your business to cook them and you'll do it or I'll know the reason why."

"I never knew exactly what struck me first, whether it was my mother's hand or my father's shingle. He had found the ground too moist and concluded to come home and finish the kitchen roof. I didn't know that. But what ever it was it did its work. After that first stunning whack, they both punished me until I was about dead, then my father said:

"Since these old bones and crusts are not good enough for you you shall have nothing."

I went back to the room to roll on the bed in agony, for I would back my father's strength and mother's energy against the world. Then I resolved to run away, and watching my chance wandered to the cabbage patch and gathered an arm full of leaves and went on down toward the rabbit hutch near the ravine. I kept in the bed of the ravine until I reached Temescal and then after scanning the road well came out and walked rapidly down toward my sister's house in Oakland. She had been recently married, and I knew would console with me in my sufferings.

I staid there one week, two, three, and the fourth came, and still no sign, nor word came from the ranch to show that I was lost. I have an idea now that my sister was young and not by any means as good a cook as my mother, and she had no patience with her mother's good food, and use said ham. Suddenly I remembered that it was Christmas and I knew what would be on the table up at the ranch, for early in the spring that big turkey was set apart for that very day, and I thought of all the other nice things, such as none but a mother could make. My brother-in-law did not believe in foolishness as he called it, and there was only to be a roast wild duck for dinner.

I wandered out to take a walk and somehow I walked away, and before I knew it I was creeping along in the ravine near the stable and peering through the bushes to see if the house was still there. As it grew dark I began to feel very hungry and looked around for a turnip or carrot, but the rabbit hutch was all gone.

I crept softly along to the house in the twilight and stood in the shadowed nook by the rainwater barrel, a d my mother stepped out to throw some bones to brave, and he began eating them with a poor appetite. I wished I had one of them, and the door was open and a delicious odor of roast turkey floated out and I could see the table spread for the Christmas feast, while I stood there out-cast and sorrowful, and I had not eaten since morning and not much then. I intended to go off to the stable and crawl up in one of the hay mows and die there of hunger and misery, and let them find my bleached bones when they went out to feed the pigs.

At that moment Father found out that I was there and rushed to me barking and wagging his tale. I don't know what possessed me, but I tore off my cravat and collar and thrust them into his mouth, and said softly, "give them to mother," and he went out grudgingly in, while I turned to run, and ran right into my father's arms as he was coming from the hen house. He took me by the collar and led me into the house.

I am ashamed to say I asked if I could stay, and they were willing to forget my foolishness and let me do so, if I would behave myself. I felt quite willing to do anything in the world only so I could stay, and I gladly promised. I even didn't say a word when I found they had sold my rabbits, and given my gun to my brother, but he privately gave it back again. Oh, yes, but it is a long story to run away. I do it if I were you. You see how I brought my parents to terms.

A FARMER IN CONGRESS.

WHAT MR. McCLAMMY THOUGHT OF THE BLESSINGS OF THE TARIFF BILL.

The following humorous as well as sensible speech was made by Charles W. McClammy of North Carolina on the Tariff Bill when it was before the House:

I did not intend to say one word during the discussion of this Tariff Bill, but I believe the time has come when it is necessary for me to speak out in meeting. [Laughter.] I have listened lately to so many compliments to the class of citizens I represent that I feel that I would be incapable of gratitude and insensitive to kindness if I did not rise here and thank you, brethren, for what you are attempting to do for us. [Laughter.] Mr. Chairman, it has been the dream of my uneventful life to witness the spectacle that every day is enacted on the floor of this House. The farmer is abroad in this land. [Laughter.] Jew or Gentile, Swede or Norwegian, German or Celt, Democrat or Republican, free trader or protectionist, tariff reformer or tariff addict, Mugwump or spoilsman, and above all, my friend from the First District of Ohio against the field—we are all "farmers" here, the Lord be praised! [Laughter.] There is a word in our vocabulary that silences all political, social, economic, or sectional differences.

"Farmer" is the countersign, and God bless you, we have all got it. [Renewed laughter.] But, Mr. Chairman, the farmers are not at all fools. They know that House bill 7,162 still sleeps in the Committee which has produced this great big bill. "They know" with my distinguished friend from Ohio (Mr. McKinley) that the same hand of protection that stirs this toothsome omelette of taxes sulphuric acid and muriatic acid, which enter so largely into the laboring man's fertilizers.

Do you mean business, gentlemen? The farmers have not got the vision to pierce a millstone, but, thank God, they can see through the diaphanous distillates of desperate debaters. [Great laughter.] Why do you not cheaper our fertilizers? You have placed a duty on Canadian eggs; you boast about what you have done for the American farmer, but you refer to it as a complete vindication of your "American policy." What audacity! It paralyzes me. [Laughter.] Why did you put cotton seed on the free list and make these farmer friends, whom you hug with so much delight to your bosom, compete with the world? Why did you put cotton seed on the free list unless it was for the purpose of destroying the manufacture of cotton-seed oil, a struggling, an "infant" Southern industry? [Laughter.] Does your boasted protective system mean only protection to Northwestern wool and New England manufactures? If not, why do you place every Southern product that is susceptible of mechanical development on the free list?

Will anybody get up here and say that this bill is not in every line, in every "bush," notoriously, conspicuously, outrageously sectional? [Laughter and applause on the Democratic side.] My friends, "free traders," do not alarm us. Brethren, brother farmers, God bless you, we are coming, and we are coming to stay; no question about it. [Laughter.]

Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr., 75 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my hip of seventeen years standing, it was cut out twice by what they call eminent surgeons at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart. JOHN HALLAHAN, 78 Charleston Street.

Beating the Slot Machine.

A complicated case was brought into the Central police station. It was that of a man who had succeeded in beating a "drop-a-nickel-in-the-slot" box, on the corner of Third and Jefferson streets. The man who was able to perform this feat was John Lewis, and he is said to have made a thorough study of the subject before risking his nickel. He first bored a hole in the coin and then fastened to it a small black silk thread. He then dropped the nickel in the slot as directed by the sign and drew out a cigar.

Seeing that nothing was stated in the directions as to how many times one nickel could be dropped in, he drew his nickel out and dropped it in again. Succeeding the second time, he continued to drop and continued to draw until he emptied the box. By the time he had drawn the twenty-ninth cigar quite a crowd had gathered around him and cheered him on. Their cries attracted Officers Schrader and Donahue, who arrested Lewis and took him from the circle in which he had become a hero.

At the station house the question arose as to what he should be charged with. After several suggestions of robbery, burglary, it was decided to place against him disorderly conduct. He was taken out on bond a little later by some of those whose cries had attracted the police.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Strange Story of a Dream.

Mr. J. D. Young, the well known insurance agent, had a dream Friday night, which caused him to awaken and arouse his wife. It was that he saw a wagon coming along with two bodies in it, and in lifting one of the men out, as he was turned over, he appeared to be dead. Then two men appeared at the head of the corpse, who appeared to be Italians, and who were arguing as to whose knife it was that fitted the wound, which was on the right side. Then he heard the name of the dead man. It was Mark Taylor, and as he knew no man by that name, he asked in his dream, "Who is he?" and the reply came loud and distinct, "Why, he's the coachman of John Henry." When Mr. Young came to his office yesterday morning he asked Mr. Henry, who had an office with him, the name of his coachman. Henry replied:

"We have a new man," and Mr. Henry gave a different name than Taylor. "He was cut last night," said Mr. Young.

"Yes," replied Henry, "but how did you find it out? It was not published in the papers."

Young replied: "I dreamed it, and that's all I know about it." Now both Mr. Henry and Mr. Young are puzzled about the coincidence.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Where the Earth Is Drying.

All the dredging that can be done in New York harbor has failed to permanently deepen it. The growing shallowness of Hudson river is noticeable, and like the outlet to Lake Champlain, which was once navigated by Indian canoes at all seasons, the upper Hudson is now almost bare of water during the summer. The Des Moines river, in Iowa, once navigated to the mouth of the Racoon fork, the present site of the city of Des Moines, will now hardly float a fisherman's rowboat. The steamboat had not plowed its bosom for over a quarter of a century. In all parts of the world there is the same decrease in the waters of rivers and lakes.—St. Louis Republic.

A Technical School in Belgium.

The establishment of a technical school for all branches of the textile industry, spinning, weaving, dyeing, etc., in Verviers, Belgium, will soon become an accomplished fact. Local manufacturers have contributed 200,000 francs for the building. The running expenses, which will be from 75,000 to 85,000 francs yearly, will be partly paid by the government, who will contribute 35,000 francs per year, while the province of Liege will contribute 15,000 francs yearly.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

A Frog in a Tree.

While cutting a fourteen inch stick of timber at the Onahama mine recently Sam Montour found a live frog imbedded in the center of the stick. Aside from the frog's limited quarters, the timber was sound. His frogship probably derived sustenance from the sap of the timber, but where did it receive air from? Or does the frog require air? Instances such as this are frequently recorded.—Grass Valley (Cal.) Tidings.

Count Potocki's Death.

Count Arthur Potocki, who recently died at Cracow in his fortieth year, was one of the largest land owners in Galicia, and he has left a fortune of £800,000. His estates and the bulk of his fortune pass to his younger brother, who is also immensely rich, and whose wife is a member of the Liechtenstein family and one of the most popular and beautiful women in Viennese society.—London World.

According to a Portland, Ore., dispatch, the body of Matt Caruthers, of Waterville, Wash., who perished in a storm last winter, has been found in a little ravine about three-quarters of a mile from his ranch. The corpse was in a reclining position, as though he had sat down to rest. In one of his clinched hands was his hat and in the other his handkerchief.

A school boy recently scalded his leg badly from knee to toe. As there were no signs of healing the attending surgeon chloroformed a greyhound puppy to death, shaved its body, skinned it and grafted the skin on the boy's leg. The healing was rapid and the color of the grafted skin was uniform and very similar to that of the normal skin.

Steam heating of railway carriages was introduced during the past winter in Prussia. The steam is supplied from the locomotive and passes through pipes underneath the carriages, the pressure in these being reduced to thirty pounds per square inch.

"Good-by, husband! You'll take good care of yourself, won't you, till you come back?" "I will, dear. I'm wearing that new shirt you made for me. I wouldn't be found with that shirt on my body, Maria, for a thousand worlds."—Chicago Tribune.

A Spring Medicine.

The druggists claim that it will call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for these ailments) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local sympathy removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind. "I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me no good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." The most profitable trade, some dealers think, is in things that cost nothing, sell for a trifle, wear out or break, and make room for more.

For instance, lamp-chimneys; but there is a sort that almost never breaks, except by violence. It takes some pluck for a grocer or crockery-merchant to sell it. One chimney may last for years; he may starve before he can sell another.

Macbeth & Co., Pittsburgh, make that chimney and call it "pearl-top;" there's a string of pearl-like beads on the top of it.

Picnic Song.

The skies are blue, the morning dew
Shines brightly on the grass.
The bobolink and meadow lark
Salute us as we pass.
The air is cool, all thoughts of school
Are vanished far away,
Our minds from care are free as air
On this our picnic day.

Along the lane, a merry train,
With song and shout of glee,
While zephyrs make the green leaves shake
On every bush and tree.
From out his house amid the boughs
The frisky squirrel peeps
His head, to view our noisy crew,
Then back to cover leaps.

Now o'er our heads the forest spreads
Its branches green and cool,
Through leafy screens the sunlight's gleam
Falls on the dimpling pool.
This is the nook, where, from the brook
Bright flowers beckon gay.
Put up the swing; the baskets bring!
Hurrah for picnic day!

A Confusion of Soles.

A superfluity of Soles has caused the postmaster general and Representative Ray, of Pennsylvania, a great deal of trouble. There has been a heated contest over the postoffice at McKeesport, Pa., and a dozen or more candidates. The congressman to whom the matter was referred declined to make any recommendation, but telegraphed to some of the leading citizens in whom he had confidence asking which of the several candidates they preferred. The answer was short and decisive, and it read: "We want Soles."

The congressman had that morning received an application for the office from Edwin Soles, backed by letters testifying to his good character and capacity, and supposing him to be the Soles wanted, informed the postmaster general, and the nomination was sent in.

Then there was a row. The whole of McKeesport almost, including the men who wanted Soles, commenced to bombard the department with protests. It was not Edwin Soles, but Elmer Soles, his uncle, that they wanted. His papers, which were very strong and voluminous, had been on file in the department for several months when his nephew Edwin, a bright and ambitious young man, thinking there was no chance of the uncle getting the appointment, thought he would go in for it, and sent down his application.

When the facts were discovered the nomination of Edwin was withdrawn and Elmer named in his place.—Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Hail in California Three Inches Deep.

F. J. Baldwin, a farmer, who lives three miles east of Beloit, reports that a heavy hail storm visited that section Saturday afternoon, coming from the south and moving northeasterly into Calaveras county. The storm commenced at about 3 o'clock and lasted one and a half hours, when three inches of hail was lying on the ground. The storm, which was apparently three or four miles wide, was attended by heavy thunder and lightning. There seemed to be a continual peculiar heavy rumbling in the clouds that could easily be heard in the intervals between roars of thunder. Old settlers say they never saw anything like the storm in this state. Cattle ran before the storm seeking shelter, but became bewildered and ran wildly about until they were tired out, when they laid down and submitted to the pelting. The storm extended into Amador county, and all along the course the hail was as large as small marbles.—Stockton Independent.

Lilies and Handcuffs.

The other day, as a royal train of Pennsylvania parlor cars pulled out of the Jersey City depot, a gentlemanly man carrying a huge bunch of lilies made his way from the rear of the train to the foremost car—the smoker. Pressing almost upon his heels was a rather rough looking fellow making the same journey. It happened that as I raised my eyes I saw behind that bunch of lilies a pair of shining steel handcuffs connecting the gentlemanly man's wrists. It would be interesting to know whether it was the convict's idea or that of his keeper to put flowers to that strange use. But to my mind there was something very poetic about it.—Julian Ralph.

Singing Mice on Shipboard.

About three months ago J. F. Chelton, of Woods Cross Roads, Va., captain of the schooner Anna Lloyd, captured a singing mouse in the cabin of his vessel while off Gloucester Point, Va. The little fellow was caged, and he sang merrily at all hours, his notes being somewhat like the subdued trill of a canary bird. Thursday another musical mouse was caught in the cabin by Capt. Chelton, and was caged with the one previously captured. They keep up a lively concert at all hours of the day and night.—Baltimore Sun.

Bishop Potter Described.

Bishop Potter is one of the handsomest men in the city when he is arrayed in evening dress. He does not look much older than he did twenty years ago or more, when he was rector of St. John's church, Troy, N. Y. The Potters are a pale faced, clean cut race, of bilious temperament, and, as a rule, long lived. They naturally take pride in their family, for they have had brains a plenty and means to cultivate them. Perhaps no name in the country is better known than that of Potter.—Exchange.

The sale of the interesting original manuscripts of Charles Dickens and Wilkie Collins, with some autograph programmes of private theatricals in which both took part, will begin in London in June. The entire original manuscripts of "No Name," "The Moonstone" and "The Woman in White" of Collins and the manuscripts of some of Dickens' poems are in this collection.

The West End electric railway station in Boston is to have 18 engines of 1,000 horse power each. They are to be triple compound, with cylinders 21, 86 and 52 inches diameter. The power is transmitted by two belts for each engine, each belt 5 feet wide. Steam will be furnished by 24 water tube boilers, each rated at 500 horse power.

The Bald False Prophet of the Cheyennes.

An Indian runner who came in from Tongue River says that, couriers sent out by the Cheyenne Indians to find the new Messiah, or second Christ, saw him and talked with him. They located him in the mountains beyond Salt Lake, and from their description of him he is an old man, with a long white beard which hangs down over his breast. Some days he wears white hair, and at other times has no hair on his head, from which it appears that he is bald headed and wears a wig.

He made one of the Cheyenne Indians who visited him a high priest, and instructed him in the rites and mysteries of the new religion. He gave him the figures and ceremonies of a new Indian dance, which takes four nights and one whole day to perform. The Cheyennes have just finished their first performance of this religious dance at the Rosebud agency, and it has occasioned great enthusiasm among them. The Indians are to perform this dance four times in four months (months), and then they will hear again from the new Christ, who will instruct them what further to do. They all believe in the new Messiah, and all work has about ceased among the Cheyennes.

The Indians are all very mysterious about their new religion and will tell the white men nothing concerning it. They are sullen and dissatisfied, and the military authorities regard the new movement with an apprehension of trouble.

Maj. Carroll says the new Christ is no doubt some old Mormon elder or bishop who is a spiritualist, and is proselyting Indians to Mormonism. He locates him on Green river. It is said that Crow Indians are sending out a delegation to meet the Christ, who is coming to meet the Crows. The cell in the guard house at Fort Custer has been dusted out and prepared for the Messiah if he can be caught.—Helena Cor. Portland Oregonian.

Care of Asparagus.

A knife should never be employed in gathering asparagus. Break off the stems as far below the ground as they will snap readily. In this way no injury will be done to other buds and the entire stem can be used for cooking. In climates where sharp frosts are likely to come during the asparagus season it is well to have a little coarse litter between the rows to hastily draw over the tender shoots when the temperature drops. The gathering of the product after the bed is in full bearing should be complete.

Never allow spindling shoots to grow, but keep the plantation clean of sprouts until the season is over. It is a safe rule to close the asparagus season with the advent of early peas. I have had shoots more than one inch in diameter, and by care this may be increased one-half. In arranging for a long season of asparagus arrangements have taken advantage of the fact that every inch of earth above the crown of the plant defers the date of picking two days. By having a few plants with crowns near the surface the season may be advanced somewhat. The picking from these plants should be discontinued correspondingly early.—Exchange.

A Shower of Ants.

A peculiar sight was witnessed on Main street, Ansonia, recently. It was what might be styled a shower of ants, and lasted nearly two hours. The air was completely filled with the insects. They seemed to come out of the ground. At one time near the postoffice they issued forth in a stream five inches wide. As soon as they reached the pavement they would take to their wings. They came out along the street for 100 yards, and after circling around in the air started in a body down the street. They evidently had midair combats, as the street was full of dead and injured and the wings of other unfortunates. What caused this immigration from the buildings is unaccounted for.—Derby (Conn.) Transcript.

Cutting Mixed Grass.

Common red clover ripens before timothy, and where they grow together you must mow the time or take an average. The clover should be cut just as most of the heads are beginning to pass out of blossom, which will be about the time that the seeds in the heads of timothy are mostly forming but not ripening. It is, however, better to be a little too early with the timothy than too late with clover. As some days must elapse between the first and the last cutting, some judgment must be exercised to reach a fair average of time.—Country Gentleman.

Future of Beet Sugar.

The beet sugar industry is looming up in our country. In our large territory and great diversity of soil and climate there are, no doubt, large areas just suited to their successful culture, and as these favored sections are brought out by experiment the production of our full supply of sugar at home, as in France and Germany, will be only a question of time. The number of acres of beets grown for sugar, the product and value will be included in the returns of the new census.—Indiana Farmer.

Postmaster Sperry, of New Haven, Conn., is the originator of a plan to be introduced at all free delivery offices throughout the country. It consists of having filled out at every house, as a guide to letter carriers, a card giving the names in full of all persons residing there, including servants and guests.

The Clove cure.—She was talking confidently to her bosom friend. "Now that we are married," she said, "John has stopped drinking entirely. I have not detected the odor of liquor about him since our wedding day. 'Was it difficult for me to stop?' inquired her bosom friend. "Oh, no; not at all. He just eats cloves. He says that is a certain cure."—Life.

It is said that after the census question "Whether suffering from acute or chronic disease?" a sufferer wrote: "Consumption, heart disease, pleurisy, bronchitis, diabetes, softening of the brain, Bright's disease, tuberculosis, and 37 other complaints." The largest railway system in the world is in England. The London and Northwestern Railway Company is capitalized at $428,000,000, and has annual income of $1,500,000 with expenses of 26,500,000, in running and other expenses. The road employs 60,000 men on the 2,500 miles of track operated by this system. They have 16,000 locomotives carry annually 57,000,000 of passengers and about 36,000,000 tons of freight.

Night or morning fogs, or in winter persistent fogs, often signify a calm and settled state of the air and the prevalence of fair weather with heavy dew especially in the autumn, likewise portend fine weather, but usually of shorter duration. Fogs appear usually in one of two conditions—either the air is nearly saturated up to a considerable height, or else is unusually dry, except in a stratum immediately above the ground.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers, the California Fig Syrup Company.

Burly Party. "Are you aware, sir, that you deliberately placed your umbrella in my ear last evening?" Little Biffert. "A very careless of me, I'm sure. I wondered what became of it, and—would it be to much trouble to ask you to return it?"—Dry Goods Chronicle.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders or syringes because they are all irritating, and do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as soon as they are used.

A multitude of persons who have been cured of catarrh can testify to the fact that catarrh can inflict itself to radical cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past obliges us to admit that only one remedy has met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms yield to it.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.

The inhabitants of the City of Newton, and all other persons liable to pay taxes therein, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from

May First to the Sixteenth Day of June, Next,

true lists of all their Polls (males, 20 years old and upward), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempted from taxation.

ASSESSMENT OF WOMEN.
Chap. 196, Acts of 1889.

The Assessors or Assistant Assessors shall, in the month of May or June in each year, visit each dwelling-house or building and make true lists of all women twenty years of age and upwards, who shall in writing over their own signatures, request the Assessors to assess them for a "poll tax," and it shall be the duty of the Assessors to inquire at each dwelling-house or building for such written requests for assessment, which must give the name in full—age, occupation and residence May 1st, 1889. All women desiring to be assessed for a poll tax should have their written request for such assessment in the form required by the act of 1889, ready for delivery to the Assessors when they shall visit the house where they dwell. Each request should be upon a separate sheet signed by the applicant with her name in full. No application for the assessment of a woman for a poll tax will be received by mail or in any other than the manner provided by said Chapter 196, except by filing in the office of the Assessors the list provided by Section 12, of Chapter 238, of Acts of 1884, as amended by Chapter 200 of Acts of 1888.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change, and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

Returns of Property Held for Literary, Benevolent, Charitable, or Scientific Purposes.
In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1882—All persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the sixteenth day of June next, true lists of all real and personal estates held by such persons and corporations respectively for literary, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes, on the first day of May, 1890, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such person or corporation for said purpose during the year next preceding said first day of May; such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the tax commissioner.

MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE.
Chap. 175, Acts of 1882, Sec. 1.

Any mortgagee or mortgagee of Real Estate may bring in to the Assessors of the town or city where such Real Estate lies, at the time specified for bringing in the list as provided in Section thirty-eight of Chapter eleven of the Public Statutes, a statement, under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such Real Estate, and the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as a mortgagee or mortgagor. When such property is situated in two or more places, or when a recorded mortgage includes for one sum two or more estates or parts of an estate, an estimate of the amount of the mortgagee's interest in each estate or part of an estate shall be given in such statement. The Assessors shall, from such statements or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate parts of such estates that are the interests of mortgagees and mortgagors, respectively, and shall assess the same. Whenever, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such Real Estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

SHIPPING.
Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9, of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property. Said returns to be made to the Assessors on or before June first.

Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed to have assented to the valuation of his property at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors agreeably to the laws of this Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors on or before the sixteenth day of June, and that the Personal Property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the Board, notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—Pub. Stat. Chap. 11, Sec. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no statement of a tax assessed on Personal Estate to such person can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the amount which would have been assessed to that person on Personal Estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the said amount, the abatement shall be only of the excess above said fifty per cent.—Pub. Statutes Chap. 11, Sec. 73.

The Assessors will be in session at their office, in the City Hall, in the City of Newton, on the 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd and 29th days of May, and the 5th and 12th days of June next, from two to five o'clock P. M.

Blank schedules will be furnished on application to either of the Assessors.

—All who use Columbus street are under obligations to Mr. A. B. Putney and Mr. Geo. S. Bryant for placing a part of their own estates at the service of the public. It is by no means every day that an older man would add a strip of land a foot wide and the length of his entire frontage on the street to the width of the concrete sidewalk, as these public spirited gentlemen have generously added their land to the width of the sidewalk.

A Suggestion for July 4th.

Now that the older ones have most successfully carried through the boys play ground project to the present time, let the younger men take hold and before the enthusiasm aroused during the past year has died out, push it along to completion. Towards this end I would suggest a gathering on the grounds on the morning of the Fourth. Let a substantial flag pole be erected, procure a suitable flag, and in the presence of the boys and girls, and villagers, with proper services raise it to the top. Let a salute of cannon be fired and thus dedicate our new play ground. A chorus of boys and girls could easily be selected, and our respected neighbor Smith might be pleased to write a few lines on the occasion. Secure a strong team for a base ball match, erect seats with awnings for the ladies and introduce water on the grounds. By this means some new features may be added to the program carried on under the auspices of the Improvement Association and our citizens have an opportunity to become acquainted with the play ground.

—The twenty-ninth anniversary of the North Evangelical Sunday school was held on Sunday evening last, and a large audience was in attendance. The church was prettily decorated with flowers and plants, more than a hundred plants having been provided by Miss Byers as gifts for the children in the primary department. Superintendent Coe had charge of the exercises which were made very interesting. The children acquitted themselves finely both in recitation and singing. The duet, "Welcome Summer," by Alfred Handley and Wendell Hudson being exceedingly fine, the chorus singing by the school was hearty and showed that a great deal of care had been bestowed in drilling the children. A short address was delivered by Mr. T. P. Knight of Boston, who is a very interesting speaker. Rev. Mr. Lamb also addressed the congregation. The school is in a flourishing condition, has a larger membership than ever before, and is constantly growing.

Rose and Strawberry Show will be held at Associates' Hall, Newton Centre, next Wednesday, beginning at 2 p. m. In addition to the roses and strawberries, of which the exhibit is expected to be a very attractive one, there will be a promenade concert
in the evening, for which special tickets have been issued.

—Officer Taffie arrested two Cambridge
boys this week who were equipped with blankets and hatchets and on their way to Wellesley to camp out, going thence, perhaps, to the wild west to investigate the red man's trail. The lads were detained at the station until the arrival of their parents who were unaware of the boys' proposed camping expedition.

—Mrs. J. P. Brown, who numbers among her pupils several successful vocalists of Newton, was most enjoyable recently at an association hall, Boston, Wednesday, June 18th. E. L. Bacon beautifully rendered Mattee's, "The Scarpato" to the great pleasure of
all. He also took part in other numbers on the very attractive program. A large concourse of Newton friends was in attendance.

—The Newton Natural History Society
leave Rowe's wharf, Boston, at 10.30 a. m.
to-morrow, for a day's outing at Nantasket beach. They will be accompanied by the Geology class of the Lowell Institute, under charge of Mr. Barton. One week from Saturday the Norumbega trip on the Charles river will be taken, and information with regard to it may be obtained of Mr. W. S. French.

—The choral service given at Eliot church
last Sunday evening was attended by a large congregation. The regular chorus choir was assisted by Mr. Willis Nowell, violinist, whose obligatos to the ladies'
chorus and the familiar Bach Gounod aria added greatly to their effectiveness. This service being the last choral service to be given this season, those which will occur
next fall will be looked forward to with pleasure.

—Many Newton people went to Belmont
last evening where the opera of Patience
was presented by a company of 50 children in effective costumes. The piece was prettily staged and the parts generally well sustained, the vocal numbers being well rendered. Sidney Grant and Miss Leslie Grant of this place took parts, the former appearing as Reginald Blunthorne and the latter as Lady Angela.

—The Newton C. L. S. C. met with L. D.
Whittemore at Alston last week. A "Browning" evening with an attractive program arranged by the Misses Worth was much enjoyed. A paper on Browning
by Mr. E. L. Bacon was well received.
There were readings from the works of the great poet by J. F. Morton, Jr., whose enthusiasm on the subject fairly inspired the large audience present. A classical paper was also read by Lewis Hall.

—Last Sunday was Flower Sunday at the Channing church, and the church was beautifully decorated. The closing exercises of the Sunday school were of an interesting nature. Next Sunday there will be the annual baptism of children.

—Members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra gave a concert in Eliot Hall last evening, and as usual only a small but highly appreciative audience was present.
Newton people do not attend local entertainments unless they are forced to do so in support of a home charity or by persuasive ticket sellers, and it is doubtful if even Patti would draw a large audience here,
unless she came for the benefit of a local society whose members made an active canvas for the sale of tickets. The concert from an excellent one, and the following well known musicians took part: Mrs.
Powers, taking the place of Madame Nellini, who was unable to be present; E.
Fedler, violin; Leo Schultz, cellist; A.
Goldstein, contrabass; S. Goldstein, violin;
E. Heindl, flute; Mrs. Powers, soprano;
Mrs. Ella Cleveland Fenderson, contralto;
S. Kronberg, baritone, and M. Myers, pianist. The program as announced last week was given.

—A very pretty wedding took place Thursday morning in Grace church. The auditorium contained a large gathering, representing prominent society people
from the Newtons, Brookline, Cambridge and vicinity. Within the church there was a beautiful floral display, consisting of potted plants, laurel, ferns, white daisies and choice cut flowers. The contracting parties were Dr. George F.
Harding, a recent Harvard graduate, and Miss Elizabeth S. Clarke, daughter of Mrs.
A. L. Clarke, late of Santa Barbara, Cal.
The bride was escorted by her brother, Dr.
George F. Harding, who entered the church precisely at 11.45 o'clock, the organ pealing forth the strains of the wedding
march from "Lohengrin" during the passage through the broad aisle to the altar.
The best man was Mr. Sutton of Andover,
and the maid of honor, Miss Alice F. Clark,
a sister of the bride. The bridemaids were Miss Florence Harding of Worcester, the ushers were Messrs. H. S. Potter and A. B. Potter of Newton, W. L. Smith and E. L. Thayer of Westchester. The bride was attired in white satin and embroidered mousseline de soie, with a long tulle veil and carried a bouquet of pink English daisies, carrying baskets of pink La France roses and maiden-hair ferns.
The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Philip Brooks, D. D., assisted by Rev.
George W. Shinn, D. D., rector of Grace church. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. John S. Potter, Walnut Park.
The bride was attended by her relatives and intimate friends. The house was very elegantly decorated with flowers, potted plants and laurel. The wedding gifts were displayed in one of the rooms, and included a valuable and beautiful collection
of solid silver, rare ornaments, china, royal Worcester and decorated ware. After the usual congratulations, the wedding breakfast was served by Mrs. Harding.
At the close of the reception, Dr. and Mrs.
Harding departed on their wedding tour.
They will sail for Europe in July and remain abroad for a year.

STREET RAILWAYS.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE HEARING WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The Board of Aldermen met Wednesday night all the members present, and Mayor Burr in the chair. The meeting was called for 6.30, and before the Street Railway hearings a large amount of routine business was disposed of. Business from the Common Council was disposed of in concurrence. The Newton Street Railway accepted the order for an extension of time.

John Magoley asked for permit to alter over house on Nonantum street. H. C. Churchill, to alter over house on Fairbanks avenue, Ward 4. M. G. Crane and others asked for gravel sidewalk on Walnut street. B. F. Barlow was granted license for stable, 22 by 30 on Parsons street. Simeon Parker asked for concrete sidewalk on Eliot street. H. E. Hibbard was granted license to move house across Washington street to Silsby estate. Isaac Dunn was granted license to move building through Station street to Beecher place. H. F. Ross asked for permit to put up lumber shed on Crafts street, 32 by 42; ordered advertised for two weeks. Alderman Harbach read a petition from the Waban Improvement Society, calling attention to the swampy lands at the headwaters of Cheesecake brook, and asking that the channel be cleaned out, and the land drained, which could be done at a moderate cost; referred. Residents of Kenrick street asked for two street lamps. Several junk licenses were granted. The Newton Centre Improvement Association was granted a permit to explode day fireworks on the Common, and at night on the lake, on the Fourth, or the next fair day. A. Putnam was granted permit to run telephone line across Winthrop near Shaw street, and on Waban street. James Scully was granted license to move building from Centre to Boylston street, and H. C. Bailey from Washington street, through Centre and Galen to Watertown line. Joseph Lee of Woodland Park Hotel, was granted permit to locate team at corner of Waltham and Washington streets, to sell ice cream. The application to reopen the rendering establishment at Nonantum was ordered advertised for two weeks. James Murphy asked for permit to build stable, 12 by 16 on Washington street, Ward 4. An order was passed authorizing the city treasurer to issue a note for $10,000, to run till 1896, at 4 per cent, the said sum to be used in building the ward for contagious diseases and the morgue, at the Cottage Hospital. The board then took a short recess, to allow the meeting of the committee on Memorial Hall.

THE STREET RAILWAY HEARING.

There was a large attendance at the street railway hearing, including Ex-Mayor Hyde and many others from Newton Centre and Newton Highlands, and a large number from Newtonville. Alderman Harbach read a numerous signed remonstrance against the use of Lake avenue or Beacon street west of Centre by a street railway. Alderman Fenno read a remonstrance from Otis E. Hunt and many others against allowing any poles or overhead wires on Walnut street. Alderman Pettie read another remonstrance against the use of Lake avenue.

The first hearing on the spur track extension on Washington street, Newton, in front of the GRAPHIC office, was closed promptly, no objections being made. The Central Street Railway's petition to run their road on Walnut street was then advocated by Geo. W. Morse. He said that the Central company was formed to promote the interests of the Newton street railway company, the corporations were the same, and it was to effect what the Newton company could not, secure the right to cross the B. & A. tracks at Newtonville. In the Newton's charter a clause was put in, that the permission of the railway commissioners must be secured to cross the tracks. The new company would need only the consent of the board of aldermen, which by a general law could grant the permission. Just here he would like to call attention to a fact that might render the hearing unnecessary, as the Newton Company already had the location on Walnut street. The charter was obtained in 1886, and secured a franchise in September 1887, for a location on Walnut and Washington streets, with a proviso that if work was not done within eighteen months, the franchise would be void. The railway commissioners refused to grant permission to cross the B. & A. tracks, and so nothing was done. In the acts and resolves of 1889, chapter 42, the legislature gave the Newton Company the right to purchase the Walnut and West Newton road, and also continued for two years all the franchises and privileges that the company had ever possessed. One of these franchises was the location on Walnut street. According to the public statutes, no board of aldermen could revoke a location granted to a street railway until a year after the road was built and operated. The board had thus no right to give away a location on Walnut street, unless the Newton company would waive its rights in favor of a new company, and the Central company could secure this of the Newton company. He had asked the board for the Garden City company if his road would agree to begin work in 30 days and have their road running in three months, but they would not agree to this, but the Central company would make this agreement.

Hon. Linus M. Child appeared for the Garden City Street Railway company, and had several spiky tilts with Mr. Morse, which the spectators enjoyed greatly, the hits made by both sides being pointed and amusing. Mr. Child said that Mr. Morse only threw out claims to the location as a feeler, but his company were willing to take the location, and fight it out in the supreme court, when the question could be carried. What did the Central company want if they already had the location? Mr. Morse said they had the location on Walnut, but they wanted a location on Homer street, and over the B. & A. tracks, and they also wanted to put the tracks on the side of the street where there were no houses.

Mr. Child doubted whether the legislature could step in and take away any powers belonging to the board of aldermen.

Mayor Burr suggested, that the legal question involved be postponed, and the hearing go on as to the other points.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich, who appeared for the Central company, said the question was a vital one, and the board should be thoroughly informed upon it. He quoted from the public statutes and acts of the legislature, and he contended that the Newton company had a valid location on Walnut street.

After an hour or more of tilling between the opposing council, they came down to business, and Mr. Morse explained the purpose of his company, the advantages of having only one railroad system in Newton, and asserted that the overhead system was the only practical system, its importance for High School pupils, for those who wish to visit the cemetery, and for all who wish to go from one side of the city to the other, and explained the advantage of having the road on the side of the street, and said he intended to put it on the side in front of the lot where he was to build his new house. He had a dozen experts to call on in regard to the overhead system, and submitted an order requiring the road to be finished in three months.

Mr. Child said the dozen experts were all in the pay of the Thomson Houston company, and he did not think the board cared for that kind of testimony. His company were willing to agree to build in a reasonable time and would let the board say what that time was. His company in view of the remonstrances would give up Lake avenue. He read the names of the Newton men in his company, and said the only question was as to the system. The board had seen both, as they had visited the Beverly & Danvers road. They say cars can't be run by our system, but we point to the fact that cars have been running for 8 months, without a break, always on schedule time, and that was a better record than the overhead system could show. Any fair man could examine the two systems and see which was the best. The storage battery cars could run 8 miles an hour, and the overhead weighed 2,000 pounds less than the cars of the other system.

Mr. John H. Alley testified at some length in regard to the storage battery system, much of his testimony being similar to that given by him at a previous hearing. It was cheaper, the average cost being 8 cents a mile, more reliable, and far less dangerous, as it did not need a heavy current of electricity all over the city. It did not disfigure the streets with poles and wires.

Quite a dispute arose between Mr. Alley and Mr. Morse as to storage battery cars in New York, the former claiming that they had stopped running, and the latter stating that he had ridden on them the day before.

Mr. A. R. Mitchell testified as to the superior merits of the storage battery system, the only one he should be willing to have run past his house.

Mr. Keene and Mr. Cummings were called on by Mr. Morse, and said they were in favor of having a railroad built, and wanted one that would run regularly and accommodate the people.

Mr. S. L. Powers appeared for Mr. Keller of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., to object to any further extension of the overhead system in Newton, as it would materially interfere with the telephone service, and said they desired to be heard, but at the suggestion of Alderman Johnson, he promised to file his objections in writing by next Monday evening. Mr. Goodrich to file at the same time the reply of the street railway company.

The hearing was then at 11 o'clock adjourned to next Monday evening.

An order appropriating $300 for clerical help in the city treasurer's office was passed.

An order was passed dividing Ward Four into two by a street railway, dividing line being the circuit railway to the main line.

Bernard F. Burke was appointed and confirmed a permanent patrolman on the police force.

A communication from Mr. J. R. Leeson, accepting the position of trustee of the Newton Free Library was received.

An order was passed that the electric light pole in Newtonville square be removed to corner of Washington and Walnut streets, and the trolley pole be removed to the square just north of the flag staff.

$127.00 taxes on the play ground at Newton Centre, paid by the association, was ordered refunded.

$90,000 was appropriated for expenses for July.

The city treasurer was authorized to sell $100,000 of water bonds, payable April 1892, at 4 per cent, the proceeds to be applied for water works construction.

Street crossings were ordered on Beverly avenue, Bowdoin and Chestnut streets.

Six hundred dollars was appropriated for trimming shade trees. Proposals for a new school building at Waban were ordered to be advertised for, and also plans and proposals for new almshouse building on Winchester street.

An order was passed requesting the Newton Street Railway to relocate their tracks on River street, between Auburn and Lexington streets, from the side to the middle of street. The application for extension to spur track was granted.

Ordinances were passed to be enrolled prohibiting the hitching of horses to shade trees, lamp posts and also prohibiting the discharge of fire arms or playing of musical instruments on public streets or squares. $50 was appropriated for the new ballot boxes. The board adjourned at 12.30.

I Wished I Was Dead.

After suffering several years with the Leucorrhoea, and no doubt I would have been now, only I had induced me to try Sulphur Bitters. Now I am well. Three bottles cured me.—Mrs. Corps, Newport, R. I.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful
consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms
and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

A Tax on Raw Material a Tax on Labor.

(Editor of the Philadelphia Record.)

"None so blind as those who will not see." That a tariff on raw material not only tends to but is bound to lower wages I can prove it in a very few words.
You live on the other side of the line,
where they don't tax wool. You use 5,000 pounds per day in your factory. I live on this side of the line, where they do tax wool (say 10 cents per pound),
and I use the same number of pounds
you do. You have just exactly $500 per day the advantage of me. The only way
I can compete with you is to lower my wages, just that much, or make my employees do that much more work. A man, horse, or mule who can't see that should be hit on the head with a hammer, and it is almost as plain that a tariff is a tax collected off the many for the benefit of the few. I claim to be the originator of that expression, and first used it in a short letter to your paper
during the Cleveland campaign of 1884.
But, according to my own argument, I should have been hit on the head with a hammer, for I used to be a strong tariff
man, but I only had heard one side.

WILLIS H. LAURENCE,
Philadelphia, June 6.

The New Tariff Departure.

The Keokuk, Iowa, Gate City, a Republican journal "to the manner born,"
is setting forth, in a very direct manner,
the true doctrine of protection to native industries which Mr. McKinley and his committee are attempting to supplant by a dogma entirely opposed to the position of the Republican party and of the great champions of the protective principle in our country. Referring to Henry Clay's strong position that our manufacturing interests must be protected, not for the sake of particular individuals engaged in manufacturing, but in behalf of the general and national interest, the Gate
City rightly affirms that this is the true idea of American protection, and continues:

It is that to which the Republican party committed itself by the war tariff of 1862. The objective point of it was that the American people should put up with the tariff until it secured for them
the cheapness of the foreign commodity.
Not that and has been reached. The American system adopted and maintained
by the Republican party has justified itself. It has brought cheapness and plenty to American consumers. And now Mr. McKinley steps in with a new doctrine, aimed to prevent the promise of cheapness of protection. He is trying to make it the law that protection
must not be allowed to give cheapness and plenty and as low prices as the foreign commodity to American consumers. That is not the American system, it is not Republicanism, it is not protection. It is simply an attempt to defeat, in the interest of rich manufacturers, the benefits to the American people of protection and of 30 years of Republican maintenance of it. When Iowa Republicans come to understand the case fully they will utterly reject the doctrine of Mr. McKinley as neither sound Republican nor wise statesmanship, nor in the interests of the American people.

The Wool Consumers' Petition.

The Wool Consumers' Association ask for the abolition of duties on wool and all raw materials. They know, of course, what this means. It means the eventual abolition of protective duties on woollen goods also, and for this they are prepared. They do not say that they are ready to enter into competition with the manufacturers of all nations, but this is what they have in mind. They have counted the cost, and have arrived at the conclusion there is more solid prosperity for them in a tariff for revenue
only than in any tariff for protection
that they can ever expect to see enacted and maintained in this country. The formation of the Wool-Consumers' Association splits the Wool-Manufacturers' Association, of which Mr. William Whitman is President, into two parts, and weakens the latter by so much.

English Opinion.

Mr. Charles Vincent, member for Central Sheffield, called the attention of the House of Commons the other day to the fact that the House of Representatives at Washington had passed a bill providing for prohibitory duties on cutlery, tin plates, iron hoops, and other articles of British export. He asked whether the English Government, having regard for the disastrous effect which the Senate's approval must have upon Sheffield, the Midlands, South Wales, and Belfast, would adhere to their view that the free import system of the United Kingdom precluded an instruction to the British Minister at Washington to represent to the United States Government the injury that such legislation would do to the industry of a friendly Power which in 1889 gave a free market to $95,000,000 worth of competing American goods. Sir James Fergusson (Under-Secretary), said the Government had not received a copy of the bill and had not been informed of any important alterations therein.

Mutual Scarcity.

Retaliation against the McKinley bill has found a voice in France in the adoption of prohibitory duties on Indian corn, and now a report comes from Mexico that an export duty will be levied on silver-lead ore in order to supplement the effect of the Treasury regulations which have interfered with that growing and profitable traffic along our southern border.
The more we have of this mutual crippling of trade the better. There is a wide scope for usefulness in the McKinley bill. It would be a good thing if Canada, in retaliation for the trebling
of our duty on barley, would treble her own duty on corn, of which we sell her $8,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels annually

or about the same quantity as the barley
we buy from her. The eyes of a good many people would be opened by this process of getting rich by taxation and
mutual scarcity.

Should They Retaliate.

Senator Hiseock, in a recent speech,
held that importation was not necessary
to exportation, because if we could sell
our products to foreign countries in competition with their own similar products,
they would be obliged to pay us in gold.
A vista is thus presented to us of fleets of steamers sailing to Europe with our products to be sold in competition with those of Russia, India, Australia, and South America, and bringing back nothing but small iron safes containing a few gold bars or bags of coin. Of course, under such circumstances, the goods we export would have to pay double freight,
since the steamers would come back empty. This would settle the question of competition with Russia, India, etc., at once, and against us. Then the question would come up, what should we do with the gold? We should soon get a sufficiency of that metal if we have not a sufficiency now. But suppose that the cunning foreigners should take it into their heads to pass McKinley bills of their own, as France and Mexico are doing or threatening to do.

Protection and the Farmers.

[Sioux City (Iowa) Tribune.]

The speech of Representative Hayes,
the only member of the House from Iowa
who represents the wishes and opinions
of a majority of the people of this State,
in the debate on the McKinley bill, made an eloquent plea for the farmers, upon whom this measure is designed to cast great additional burdens. He said that it could be shown in many ways and by many facts and figures that protection is detrimental to the farming class, and that this bill only increases their burdens without any honest pretense of relief, and that it may be laid down as fundamental:
1. That so-called protection to the manufacturing interests in no wise increases the prices of farm products.

2. That it increases the prices of everything that the farmer has to buy,
including everything that he uses that he does not produce.

3. That pretended protection to him
by the imposition of a tariff upon farm products is a snare and a delusion, and where it has any effect, is against his interests.

The Destructive Tariff.

[Albany Argus.]

The American Economist is a somewhat absurd publication issued gratuitously by Republican "fat" men, who subscribed large sums of money to corrupt voters in 1888. It is in a "state of mind" because the Hon. Henry G. Burleigh, Republican ex-Congressman, recently condemned the McKinley tariff bill in the columns of the Argus. It thinks that Mr. Burleigh should have presented his objections to the bill secretly to the ways and means committee in the vault of the capitol instead of "assisting a most bitter enemy of protection in its warfare on our industries." In its opposition to the McKinley tariff bill the Argus finds itself sustained by:

1. Every stove foundry but one in Albany.
2. Every tobacco factory in Albany.
3. Nearly every lumber dealer in Albany.
4. Every gunsmith in Albany.
5. Nearly every retail dry goods store in Albany.
6. Every roofing establishment in Albany.
7. Nearly every furniture factory in Albany.
8. Every maltster in Albany.
9. Every brewer in Albany.
10. Nearly every grain merchant in Albany.

Men representing these interests have gone out of their way to come into this office to urge the Argus to point out the desertion which the McKinley "protection" bill would work in the city of Albany alone.

An Open Fable.

There was a very good-natured farmer
known by his neighbors as Brother Johnathan. His farm was very large and fertile, and his crops were abundant and varied. It occurred to him one day that as he was obliged to pay out a large amount of the money he got from his crops every year for the purchase of tools, groceries, clothing, etc., it would be a good scheme to make all these things on the farm, and save his money.
So he ordered his wife and children, of whom he had a good many, to refrain from going any more to the store, the blacksmith shop, the tailor, and all the other places where they had been accustomed to buy their supplies, and he made arrangements for making all the things required at home. This is what I call a "home market," said he, and the result was that he had the satisfaction of using every thing of home production;
the only drawback being that his articles
cost him more, and were not so good,
while the storekeeper, the blacksmith,
the tailor, and all the other people with whom he formerly traded, refused to buy the products of his farm, but went to other farmers who pursued a more liberal policy.

[NOTE. Brother Johnathan's farm abounded in resources, and there was not the least danger that it would not produce everything which it could produce to advantage if his prohibition were removed. For instance, he has rich copper mines on his farm, where copper can be produced cheaper than anywhere else in the world, but the result of Brother Johnathan's policy is that his neighbors, who have no copper mines, get their copper much cheaper than he does.]

The "Dude" train on the Old Colony Railroad has commenced running. This train has a limited passenger for private subscribers, and this year it will run from Boston to Buzzard's Bay station, a distance of 55 miles in 64 minutes. This is a speed of 50 miles per hour, and it is doubtful if there is another regular train
in the United States making the same time for an equal distance.

A counter-irritant—A woman who compels the clerk to pull down all the goods on the shelves for her inspection
and then buys nothing.

In my practice among children, I have had more and better success with Mellin's Food than with any and all others," is the testimony of a prominent physician.

FOR THE

BLOOD, LIVER AND KIDNEYS.

This great constitutional remedy has been on the European market for over twenty years, is superior to all others, and proven the greatest Blood Purifier and System Renovator ever compounded by medical skill. Nothing can equal it for putting the vital portions of the body in condition. If your liver is affected do you stop to think how, or what your liver is? The liver is subject to more or less little pains or aches. This organ is the sponge of the body and is continually soaked full of blood rich in poisons. Its purpose is the secretion of certain digestive and cathartic elements known as bile, and the transformation of those products of digestion which are absorbed into the blood and carried into the liver before they enter the general circulation and assist in nourishing the body. Inactivity, then, produces numerous diseases. So by using Lawton's Vegetable Compound your liver will be free from all disease. It is also absolutely necessary to know what and where are your kidneys. There are two kidneys, one on each side of the backbone. They are the only organs that purify the blood of the uric acid waste in the system. Every drop of blood courses through a great many times a day, just as through the heart. The waste matter which they should take away contains deadly poison which, if retained, causes fatal results. Sixty-five gallons of blood per hour, in the average man, passes through the kidneys, and to purify it they must be in perfect health. The kidneys are filled with many thousand hair-like tubes. These tubes run into every part of the kidney, and as the blood flows through that organ, the urine passes into these tubes, and is drained into the bladder. If these little tubes are diseased, and the uric acid is not removed, and instead of this poison coming through the blood or the albumen, which is really the life of the blood, comes through these walls and escapes with the urine; in other words the nerve action is entirely wrong, and instead of taking the poison out of the blood the life of the blood is taken out and the poison remains.

By its immediate action upon these vital organs thoroughly cleanses, renovates and restores them to their normal condition.

GRANITE STATE PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

The question of homes and the methods of procuring them is one of the most vital that men have to deal with. The great mass of our people struggling under limited incomes are obliged to use economy in almost all directions to save out of their earnings sufficient to be of much benefit to them in acquiring the same. Co-operative banks have been the result of the workings of public-spirited men of the past; and their step has been "improved," making the accumulations of small savings valuable in the application toward certain specific objects, a boon to any community. The Granite State Provident Association has made this improvement, and its plan which is unique is original with us, of which the above club is a part. To say they have taken a decided step in this direction it is not desired to create the impression that the object of their work is a philanthropic one. But, if it does procure a saving or a more economical use of the funds of the people of limited means, it certainly is valuable in its action and is worthy of the consideration of all. Call or send for information if you want to get a home, pay off a mortgage, or desire a safe and profitable investment, as we offer much better terms than any other association CAN, or than any bank or capitalist WILL.

High School Notes.

This week closes the regular session of the school. The senior class, who have finished four years of work in the various courses, will hold their graduation exercises at the building on Tuesday at ten o'clock. After ten the doors will be open to all who have not tickets. The exercises, which will be up to the usual standard, will be held according to the rules made by the school committee during the past year.

The drill which was postponed from last week Saturday, will be held tomorrow, Saturday, if the weather will permit.

The following will be ushers at the graduation exercises: Messrs. H. R. Whitmore, Travis, H. Whitmore, J. H. Weston, Huxley, G. Allen, Tarbell, Tyler, Young, Ellison, E. Green, Coffin.

Henceforth those taking the classical course at the school will be allowed to follow the course four or five years. The four year's course remains as it has been in the past, but the five year's course is as follows: First year: Latin, 5; English Literature, 3; English Composition, 2; Algebra, 3. Second year: Latin, 5; English Literature, 3; History, 3; Geometry, 3. Third year: Latin, 5; Greek, 6, or French, 5; English Literature, 2; French, 3; Physics, 2. Fourth year: Latin, 5; Greek, 6, or French, 5; English Literature, 1; Algebra, 3; History, 2; French, 3. Fifth year: Latin, 6; Greek, 6, or French, 5; English Literature, 2; Geometry, 2; Physics, 4.

The School Catalogue, issued by the Review, has appeared in '90's class color. All subscribers of the Review are entitled to a copy.

The signal corps, which is the latest addition to the battalion, will give a very interesting exhibition, under command of Ser. Weston, at the drill to-morrow. Do not fail to see it.

NONANTUM

On Wednesday afternoon at the Eliot school, an hour was given pleasantly to an exhibition of penmanship and sewing. The work demonstrated the proficiency of the pupils and was deservedly commended by the teachers.

The vacation school will be opened at Nonantum, on Monday, July 7th. Carpentry, cooking and sewing are to be taught. Girls over ten years old wishing to attend may apply at the Atheneum building, Friday, June 27th, at 3 o'clock, and boys at the same place on Wednesday, June 25th, at 4 o'clock.

Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

The great rose and strawberry show of the above society, which will occur this year on June 24th and 25th, at the halls of the society, on Tremont street, Boston, bids fair to supersede all its predecessors.

Other great attractions in the shape of tropical, stove and greenhouse plants, orchids, etc., will be shown in abundance, filling the two great halls of the society with a display such as cannot be excelled at this season of the year.

The exhibition will open at one o'clock on Tuesday, and remain open day and evening till nine o'clock on Wednesday evening, and will be worth a visit.

Gentlemen's Wearing Apparel.

Everything needful to perfect the wardrobe can be found at the store of the Standard Clothing Co., 395 Washington street, Boston. No larger stock or better display of fine ready-made clothing is anywhere offered for sale. Newton people will do well to patronize "The Standard" and remember that it is only large sales and small profits that bring such sweeping reductions about.

The cooking at the Green Acre, the new summer hotel at Eliot, Me., will be purely American in character, and in place of the stereotyped foreign dishes, will be supplied with home products, fresh vegetables, eggs, rich milk and real cream being used in abundance. An old-fashioned brick oven and the preparation of those old time New England delicacies, which is almost a lost art, will be revived.

—Children's Sunday was appropriately observed last Sunday at the Universalist church. Ten children were chosen to assist the pastor, and thus became children of the church. The recitations and hymns by the younger children of the Sunday school, all bearing upon the thought of the love and tenderness of Jesus for the little ones, were very interesting. The church was well filled.

—The floral decorations at the Pinkham silver wedding anniversary were a pleasing feature. The window seats had many fine groupings in harmony of color, and to call for special mention, one of softly shaded pink peonies backed by the purple beech; another, a beautiful cluster of the same blossoms with sprays of the more delicate spray, daisies, lilies, roses, the orange syringa, the fleur de lis, the oak, maple and graceful ferns and fronds, all lent their added beauty. The platform was transformed into a pretty border of palms, ferns, rhododendrons and hydrangeas. A center piece of yellow daisies in dainty setting of green was much admired. Behind this screen, the orchestra disclosed. From the central chandelier a floral umbrella of maple leaves and daisies, was suspended by white satin ribbon and Bethoven and Mozart, their portraits ennobled in graceful sprays, looked down upon the happy company.

—The Red Men had a great game of ball on the 17th, and for once the warriors and chiefs of Norumbega had a difficulty which could only be settled by friendly competition. The features of the game was the battery work of the Black Stockings, the batting of Rob Hill and the first base and ground play of Clay. During the progress of the game Councilman Mead was presented with an elegant bouquet, the gift of friends. The game was played in amusing features and made plenty of fun for its participants and the 300 spectators present. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the victorious and defeated nines sat down to a banquet in Tremont Hall. Covers were laid for 35 and an excellent collation served. After the material features the boys initiated a series of potato races, affording much amusement.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Pinkham celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Friday evening, and were tendered a reception in the Universalist church parlors which was attended by a large number of society people. Mr. and Mrs. Pinkham stood on a mat in front of a window banked with ferns and choice flowers, and received the congratulations and good wishes of their friends, who were formally presented by a corps of ushers: Messrs. H. D. Kingsbury, C. D. Fillebrown, E. W. Wilson, G. Hollis Blake and Austin T. Sylvester. During the evening, a musical was discoursed by Baldwin's orchestra stationed on the platform, which was beautifully decorated with potted plants, ferns and hydrangeas. Tables were arranged in the Sunday school room, opening from the church parlors, where a collation was served by Hicks. The presents, consisting of many articles of silver and valuable ornaments, were displayed upon a grand piano, and from the ceiling overhead was suspended a floral umbrella, composed of daisies and smilax. —Arthur Jones, a carpenter employed by H. H. Hunt, while at work putting up moulting in the Damon house Saturday, was thrown from a step ladder which gave way. —The tracks along the side of River street must come up, so say the aldermen, because of the danger to the life and limbs of children who reside along line of the

There was a large number present, and the usual social features were enjoyed. Music was furnished by Carter's orchestra, and during the evening a collation was served. The schools numbers 100 pupils representing nearly all the states, Cuba, South America, Italy and other foreign countries. The present term has been a very successful one in the school's history.

—A memorial building for Newton was first suggested by Charles Ward Post, and recently a committee was appointed to consider the project. A sub-committee, to whom was referred the subject of a building, reported last Friday evening, at a meeting held in the City Hall, suggesting in general way the erection of a building to cost about $70,000, and to contain an auditorium, quarters for the post and a skill hall. The general committee will now proceed with the perfection of the plan, and a subscription fund will be started. Already citizens have agreed to subscribe liberally, and the culmination of the scheme, in the shape of a beautiful public building, may be anticipated in the near future.

—A handsome flag, 20x10, presented by the parents and children of the Franklin school, River street, was floated from a flagpole on the school building Tuesday morning in the presence of over 500 spectators. The speakers addressed the gathering from a platform, erected in front of the building. Alderman Lawrence Bond presided and made brief introductory remarks. The address by Mr. Condrin was of an interesting character, explanatory of the significance of the nations flag, counseling for it the reverence and respect which the "stars and stripes" should receive at the hands of all loyal Americans.

—The adjourned annual meeting of the Boston Children's Aid society was held at the Pine Farm school, Wednesday afternoon. There was a large attendance. Hon. Robert T. Alden, president of the society, occupied the chair. From the report of the treasurer, Edward Jackson, the following statistics were gleaned: Total expenditures of the current year, $21,700, including $2,300 for the Pine Farm school, $2,200 for the Rockland farm, $2,200 for the Weston farm, $5,417.19 at the Pine farm, $5,742.25 at the Boston office, $748.75 for probation work, $128.91 for the work of helping poor girls. There is a balance on hand from last year of $66.64. The annual subscriptions aggregated $2830; donations, $6300.75; investment incomes, $2395.87; amounts received from parents of delinquents, $890.13; legacies, $2520; receipts from sale of farm products, $736.41. There is at present a balance on hand of $2027.49. The total receipts for the current year were $12,800.75. The officers of the society were: President, Mr. C. W. Butler, who referred especially to the advantages of the bureau in connection with the society, a valuable auxiliary in determining deserving cases needing assistance.

—Sergeant Huetis and Officer Quilty of the Newton police, and Chief Burleigh and Sergeant McKenna of Waltham, arrested six men early Saturday morning on a section of the Pulsifer estate, near Fox Island, on the Newton side of Charles river. The men had been cruising all night and indulging in a free-for-all fight. The waiting hours of the night and early hours of the morning were rendered hideous by sounds of discordant mirth and the yells of the intoxicated and belligerent. Some of the men were cut and bruised about the head and face, and the timely appearance of the police undoubtedly prevented more serious results. Before the arrest, the progress of the fight an occasional revolver shot was fired, probably with no specific purpose other than to give a sort of zest to the affair. In the police court, Saturday, the six men, Michael John Manning, John O'Brien, John Sherwood, Frank Glancy and Gourman Whitney—were each fined $5 and costs for drunkenness. The keg containing the part of the beer that was left was taken to the central police station and placed in the "condemned" cell.

—The swimming matches for prizes at Lacost Sunday, which so many friends of the pupils were looking forward, has, for several reasons, been given up as impracticable.

—The North and South Middlesex conference held a united meeting at Walden pond, Thursday. The delegates chosen from the Unitarian church in this place were Mr. and Mrs. Plimpton, Mr. and Mrs. Towne, and the Misses Wise.

—Miss Campbell, formerly known to the people of West Newton, has leased the new corner store in the old Hotel block and will open a first class restaurant room for the sale of home made articles, also ice cream, which has been a long felt want in this place for summer evenings.

—Mr. John Pearce will sail for London next week in the interests of the terminal city project and to superintend the erection of a factory at Wales. His business abroad will also include the arrangement of several financial schemes, representing American interests.

—The Unitarian society is to be congratulated upon the immediate prospect of their obtaining a new organ, the specifications having been drawn and the building contract awarded to Mr. Hutchins of Boston. It will be in place early in the fall and will be used at the services upon the opening of the church after the summer vacation.

—Arthur Jones, a carpenter employed by H. H. Hunt, while at work putting up moulting in the Damon house Saturday, was thrown from a step ladder which gave way. He received a bad cut over the left eye, which six stitches were taken by Dr. Reed and sprained both wrists. The injured man was taken to his home on River street.

—The Educational club enjoyed its summer outing last Wednesday. The weather was every way propitious and the usual "lovely time" was experienced. Sherborn prison was visited by invitation of the superintendent, who gave an interesting paper before the club last winter; also Higginsett gardens. The club held a picnic in all places of interest on the route.

—The tracks along the side of River street must come up, so say the aldermen, because of the danger to the life and limbs of children who reside along line of the route. The railroad company has been requested by the board to re-locate its tracks in the centre of the street, between Lexington street and Auburndale avenue. The order was introduced by Alderman Bond.

—There will be a meeting at the house of J. R. Carter, Mt. Vernon street, Saturday evening, June 21st, at 8 p. m., of those interested in the erection of a suitable building for a kindergarten. Rev. J. C. Jaynes, Mr. Sweetser, kindergarten. Mr. John T. Prince, J. W. Carter and others will be present. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in the subject.

—The pupils of the English and classical school were entertained last Friday evening at the residence of their principal, Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen, Webster street. There was a large number present, and the usual social features were enjoyed. Music was furnished by Carter's orchestra, and during the evening a collation was served. The schools numbers 100 pupils representing nearly all the states, Cuba, South America, Italy and other foreign countries. The present term has been a very successful one in the school's history.

—A memorial building for Newton was first suggested by Charles Ward Post, and recently a committee was appointed to consider the project. A sub-committee, to whom was referred the subject of a building, reported last Friday evening, at a meeting held in the City Hall, suggesting in general way the erection of a building to cost about $70,000, and to contain an auditorium, quarters for the post and a skill hall. The general committee will now proceed with the perfection of the plan, and a subscription fund will be started. Already citizens have agreed to subscribe liberally, and the culmination of the scheme, in the shape of a beautiful public building, may be anticipated in the near future.

—A handsome flag, 20x10, presented by the parents and children of the Franklin school, River street, was floated from a flagpole on the school building Tuesday morning in the presence of over 500 spectators. The speakers addressed the gathering from a platform, erected in front of the building. Alderman Lawrence Bond presided and made brief introductory remarks. The order of exercises was as follows: Singing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," school recitation, "Union and Liberty," class recitation, "The Battle Flag," first and second classes recitation, "The Stars and Stripes," third class; presentation of flag in behalf of the donors, Mr. James R. Condrin; reception of the flag in behalf of the school, Mr. Samuel Bernard; reception of the flag in behalf of the school, Mr. Levi F. Warren. At the close of the exercise, the children and spectators united in singing the national hymn, "America." The address by Mr. Condrin was of an interesting character, explanatory of the significance of the nations flag, counseling for it the reverence and respect which the "stars and stripes" should receive at the hands of all loyal Americans.

THE GEM SPORT.

NEWTON B. B. A., 10; STUDIES 4.

The J. B. Studley Produce Co., nine came to Newtonville, Tuesday afternoon and played an interesting game with the Newton B. B. A. Club on the Watertown street grounds. The bleachers were pretty well covered from the sun's rays, being occupied by about 500 spectators who applauded good plays on either side. It was a pitcher's contest, Bent of the home club and Carleton for the visitors, each striking out seventeen men. Bent was better supported, however, and only scattering hits were made off his delivery with the exception of a drive by Butler who sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Sullivan repeated the performance for the home nine later in the game, running around the bases and bringing a man in ahead of him. The features of the game were a fine catch and throw by Fredericks, cutting off a man at the plate, the batting of Sullivan and Butler, the fielding and batting of Nichols, who first base playing of Freeland. Generally speaking both nines were weak at the bat, while the home club put up a much better fielding game than the visitors. Hunting of the Newtons strained his side the first time he went to the bat and Coney finished out the game, Nichols playing short, where he handled two hot grounders in good shape.

Appended is the score:

NEWTONS 10, STUDIES 4.

The J. B. Studley team played a very interesting game at Newton Tuesday, before 756 spectators. Bent and Carleton both pitched a great game, but the former had the better support. The studies made all their errors, and the Newtons all their hits in three innings. The features were the pitching of Carleton, who struck out 17 men, and the catching of Daniels. Hunting was hurt in the first inning and Coney played in his place the balance of the game. The score:

The bride followed, leaning on the arm of her father. The entire party, including the eight ushers, who were stationed at either side aisle, advanced simultaneously to the chancel, where they were met by the officiating clergyman, Rev. Howard N. Brown, the groom and his cousin, Dr. Walter Burrage, who acted as best man.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the newly wedded couple left the church in the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride looked charming in a beautiful costume of imported white corded silk, cut en traine, with full tulle veil, lilies of the valley and diamond ornaments.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

HAVE ANOTHER STRUGGLE WITH THE STREET RAILWAY HEARINGS.

Both branches of the city council met Monday evening. In the board of aldermen all the members were present and Mayor Burr was in the chair.

J. M. Norton was granted a license to build a stable.

The highway committee reported in favor of building a concrete sidewalk on Bowdoin and Forest streets, in front of the estate of Mr. E. H. Tarbell, also on Tremont street past the estates of Mr. H. E. Hibbard and Mr. J. B. Moors, and to build a street crossing across Franklin street, at head of Eldridge, and an order was passed to that effect.

The special committee on bath houses reported in favor of public bath houses on Crystal Lake, Bullough's pond and Boyd's pond, and to appropriate $1,000 therefor.

J. A. Andrews & Co. gave notice of intention to build four houses on Auburn-dale avenue, 20 by 40 feet, by Soden and Carter, and the latter also petitioned to have the sidewalks graded.

Two hundred dollars was appropriated for laying 220 feet of 6 inch water pipe on Lothrop street.

A permit was given for the display of fireworks on Nonantum square, the evening of July 4th, and to enclose a portion of Washington street therefor.

The City Treasurer was authorized to borrow $100,000, the same to be repaid from this year's assessment and collection of taxes.

The mayor was authorized to execute a deed for the city lot on Jewett street, at 5 cents per square foot.

W. O. Hunt and others asked for street lamp on Edinboro street.

The mayor called attention to his ruling on the $75 order for the repayment of the subscriptions for the temporary bridge at Lower Falls, and said that he had been mistaken and the order was therefore before the board.

Alderman Johnson said there was a misunderstanding about the money, as the citizens of Lower Falls thought the money was to be refunded when they gave it. It was a small matter, and it was a question if it was not the duty of the city to build the temporary bridge. Wellesley paid her share and they needed the bridge less than Newton did. The order was then passed.

BATH HOUSES.

Alderman Harbach presented an order authorizing the building of three bath houses, one each on Crystal Lake, Bullough's pond and Boyd's pond, and that $1000 be appropriated for the purpose.

Alderman Pettie thought the use of the bath houses would be simply for recreation and amusement, and he did not see why the city should supply a building just for fun. If it was cleanliness he would not object, but in a sparsely settled city like Newton he did not think the city was called on to supply bath houses. If there was a fee charged it might be more reasonable to go to such an expense.

Alderman Harbach said it was quite as important to have bath houses as to have play grounds, bathing was a healthful recreation, and unless bath houses were provided bathing must cease in the city limits.

Alderman Pettie said that he was much obliged to the alderman for putting bath houses in the same category as play grounds, but still he doubted the propriety of the city's providing places at its own expense simply for recreation. These bath houses also seemed to be simply for boys, but if it was important to provide them for boys why not for girls. If the boys were to be taught to swim the girls should be.

Alderman Johnson asked if the $1000 provided for the building of bath houses as well as the first cost of the buildings.

Alderman Harbach said that it did, the cost of maintenance would be about $60 a month, but he had no doubt that the citizens would rather take care of the houses, or provide a man to do so, than not have them.

The vote was then taken, and Messrs. Harbach, Coffin, Fenno and Bond voted yes, Messrs. Pettie and Johnson, no, and the order failed to receive a two-thirds vote and was lost.

Alderman Fenno changed his vote and amended the order, to appropriate $200 for one bath house on Bullough's pond, a central location, and in that form it was passed. Alderman Pettie alone voting against it. On motion of Alderman Harbach it was made a substitute order instead of an amended one.

Alderman Harbach said that the committee could estimate certain fees for girls, as was done in the Boston bath houses.

Alderman Pettie thought there should be a teacher of swimming appointed to be on duty at the bath house, and this is such an important matter that it will probably be taken care of by private subscription.

GEN. SHERMAN.

Alderman Fenno moved that a special committee be appointed, consisting of the mayor, three aldermen, and members of the common council, on the reception and entertainment of Gen. Sherman, on the occasion of the visit of Gen. Sherman to Newton in August. Mayor Burr appointed Aldermen Fenno, Pettie and Hamblen.

STREET RAILWAYS.

Mayor Burr read a letter from Samuel Hoar, counsel for the Boston & Albany road, saying that he had heard at 4 p.m., on that day, of a hearing on the application of two street railways for permission to cross the Boston & Albany tracks at grade, and the matter was one of so much importance to the railroad, so much danger was involved to the public, that he should ask to appear to protest. He had received no official notice of the application, and heard of it so late that he was unable to be present.

Ex-Alderman Powers, counsel for the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, then submitted a brief, detailing the objection of the Telephone company to any further extension of the single trolley system in Newton. There are now 300 telephone subscribers, who send an average of ten messages a day, between two persons, which makes 600 messages daily. The Telephone company asked for protection, as the single trolley system would interfere with telephone work, was dangerous to the public, would interfere with the use of private property, and in one case at least the courts had granted an injunction against the single trolley on the application of a telephone company. There were other electric systems which could be used, the double trolley system was safe and was coming into use in many cities, and the storage battery system was also safe and had worked successfully.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich, counsel for the Central Street Railway company, wanted five minutes outside of the briefs for answering arguments in the brief.

Mr. Powers said the board had the matter submitted in writing to get rid of hearing the counsel talk, and his side was satisfied. He did not care about talking against time.

Mr. Goodrich said he had not expected that the other side would go into such an elaborate argument, and he would like a chance to reply.

After more sparring Mr. Goodrich read his brief, which seemed to be quite as elaborate an argument as that presented by the other side. He contended that the single trolley system did not always interfere with telephones, and besides the trouble could be easily obviated by use of the metallic system, or in several other ways by the telephone company. 234 towns had the single trolley system, and only 4 used double trolleys in the whole United States, while 4 more were under contract. Mr. Goodrich also submitted several sets of exhibits, to which Mr. Powers was given opportunity of submitting testimony in reply.

Alderman Harbach presented a strong remonstrance against allowing any street railway to cross the tracks of the Boston & Albany at Newton Highlands or New Centre, signed by Hon. J. F. C. Hyde and 25 other property owners on the other side of the track, from the Walnut street crossing, to the Center street crossing.

Ex-Mayor Hyde said he felt it his duty to remonstrate against allowing any street railway to cross the railroad tracks at grade at those points. He could have secured more names to the remonstrance if he had had time, but as it was, he had the names of nearly all the property owners along the proposed route. None of them wanted the street railway, there would be no business for the road in years, and there was no demand for the road. The quarters of the street car would be a nuisance to the residents, and it was a scheme to break up our streets and put a nuisance in front of our houses. The franchise was sought for some purpose other than that of making money, as no money could be made out of it, but probably to franchise would be a nice thing to have on hand to sell. At Newton Highlands there are 106 trains a day, 2 of them express trains, 1 an express freight out and in, and there would be great danger. At Newton Centre the crossing was a diagonal one, and one of the worst in the city. The railway commissioners would refuse to allow any street railway to cross steam railroad tracks at grade, the Boston & Albany would oppose it as in the highest degree dangerous, and there was no earthly need of such a crossing. If the road must go over that side let them wait till the Hyde street bridge is built, and then go down to the Cypress street bridge. He thought the board should consider well before it granted a grade crossing to any street railway.

Mr. Henry W. Holbrook of Newton Highlands, said he appeared for his neighbors and himself to remonstrate against any road in the lower part of Walnut street; Walnut street was not wide enough; no one wanted the railway, the High school children were accommodated sufficiently by the Circuit railway; it would destroy Walnut street as a thoroughfare for driving, now one of the most popular streets in the city, and there was an almost united opposition to any street railway.

This closed the remonstrance against the Garden City's proposed route.

Mr. Frank Edmunds appeared to protest against the Central street railway being allowed to obstruct so many streets in Newton Centre; one route to the depot from Homer street was sufficient, and the cars could go and come the same way. Institution avenue was already too narrow, and a street railway there would be a nuisance.

Mr. E. W. Redpath said that if we are to have a railway on Walnut street, we ought to have the least objectionable one, and he considered the storage battery system to be less of a nuisance than any other, and he thought nine-tenths of the citizens would agree with him. In Alleghany City he unfortunately owned property on the line of a street railway and it was proving a great nuisance, on account of the noise and confusion. People who did not own houses were moving away, and the noise of the single trolley was almost unbearable. He thought a street railway should pay something, but it was said that we can not sell our streets. He thought the board had better petition the legislature for power to secure some form of street railways. Since last year there had been a great demand for the widening of Washington street, caused by the street railway being located there, and if a street railway was built on Walnut street there would be a demand immediately for the widening of that street. It was too bad to make the citizens pay simply for the benefit of the street railway companies.

Mr. A. R. Mitchell said he had been opposed to street railways, but the time had come or was coming when we had got to have them, and he was interested in having the least objectionable system, which he was convinced was the storage battery. His company would doubt accept any street that the board would give them.

Mr. Goodrich asked if the road was to be built for an experiment, or for the accommodation of the citizens.

Mr. Mitchell said for the accommodation of citizens, and he was confident the board would choose a system least objectionable to citizens.

Mr. Goodrich then submitted several forms of orders, which he said his company would accept, all of them quite strictly drawn, and he asked quite a laugh by saying that he hoped the board would use the same form of orders, if they granted a location to the other company.

Mr. Mitchell said he could not understand the uncommon anxiety of the Garden City Company, but if he was going into an argument, he would remind him that he had agreed to make no argument as Mr. Child could not be present.

Alderman Harbach moved that the hearing be adjourned to next Monday evening at 8 o'clock, to accommodate Mr. Samuel Hoar and Mr. Child. The motion was passed.

The ordinance committee reported on enrolled ordinances relating to street music, fire arms, etc., and they were passed to be ordained.

On motion of Alderman Bond an order was passed giving a hearing on the change of location of the Street railway on Lexington and River streets, from the side to the middle of the street, on July 7th.

A communication from Chief Bibby, recommending that guard wires be placed over and parallel to the trolley wires of the Street Railway Co. was referred to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Harbach, Pettie and Coffin.

The Newton Street Railway Co. asked for a license to keep two horses in addition to those allowed by law in their car house. Referred to Highway Committee.

When the order for a strike for the North church tower in Nonantum came up from the lower branch, appropriating $675 therefor, Alderman Pettie said it was usual to refer such things to the fire committee. There was no horse company and no firemen in Nonantum, so that the strike was not needed for fire department purposes.

Councilman Forknall on being asked, stated that the church committee was willing to have the strike in the tower, and that the strike was needed, especially for the school signal.

On motion of Alderman Bond, the order was referred to the fire committee on finance, and the petition for the strike to the fire committee.

The board then adjourned.

Common Council.

At the session of the common council, President Hyde presided. A petition presented by Councilman Churchill was referred to the committee on claims. Petitions presented by Councilman Forknall for an arc light corner of Chapel and California streets, and for a fire alarm strike to be attached to the bell in the North Evangelical church, were respectively referred to the committees on street lights and fire department.

An order was offered by Councilman Forknall providing for an appropriation of $675 from the miscellaneous expense fund, to be expended under the direction of the committee on fire department for the purchase of a fire alarm strike in the belfry of the North Evangelical church. Councilman Hall opposed the passage of the order. He said that the matter should be referred to the committee on fire department and the order introduced after that committee made its report. He moved to lay the order on the table.

Councilman Forknall—I arise to a point of order.

President Hyde—State your point of order.

Councilman Forknall—Councilman Hall having spoken on the order cannot move to lay it on the table.

President Hyde—Your point of order is well taken.

Councilman Forknall spoke in behalf of the order. He said that the fire committee had reported adversely before because it had no money for the purpose and not because it did not recognize the necessity for the strike, which was asked for in behalf of large property interests. The order which I have introduced provides for the money and there is no reason to be urged for further delay.

Councilman Richardson said he thought the order ought to go first before the fire committee.

The order was finally passed, 9 yeas, 4 nays, 1 absent.

Councilman Bates for the committee on ordinances, recommended the passage of the ordinance of the ordinances concerning the hitching of horses, playing on musical instruments, and the discharge of fire-arms, and the same were read and passed to be ordained.

On motion of Councilman Bates the council adjourned to meet Monday evening, July 7th.

The Tariff is a Hamburg.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

New England Interests.

Mr. Horace R. Tobey of the Tremont Nail Company makes some very good points in an open letter to Representative Dingley.

Coal.

Among other things he says: Whenever, by the repeal of the present tariff, and such changes in this policy of the government as shall give assurance that the commencement of importation into New England shall not be the signal for increased duty, encouragement shall be given and a market furnished for the sale of Canadian coal, the recent history of Alabama will be repeated in the development of the coal fields of Nova Scotia, and lines of transportation will be established which will deliver coal in Boston from Nova Scotia, as other lines often deliver coal there from Philadelphia, at a freight rate of less than $1. But coal shipped from Philadelphia has also to pay the cost of a long railroad haul from the interior before it reaches Philadelphia, while the Nova Scotian coal is mined on the coast.

Iron.

In reply to Mr. Dingley's assertion that the duty on pig iron could not be reduced without increasing importations and displacing home production, Mr. Tobey says: No pig iron is now, nor has for a long time been, imported, excepting for certain uses in which quality is a matter of more importance than price. Any importation competitive, in price, with American pig iron, has long been out of the question. You protest against "increasing the importations," which are practically nothing, and you thereby clearly and distinctly announce your intention to apply the "Chinese wall" principle to the importation of pig iron into New England from foreign countries. As scrap iron and scrap steel are classed with pig iron in the tariff bill which you support, you evidently include these also in your Mongolian prohibition.

Tin Plate.

As to the tin plate question, he calls Mr. Dingley's attention "to the fact that no making of tin plate is possible in New England, for the iron which forms the basis of this manufacture cannot penetrate the Chinese wall erected by you to prevent its entrance. It is in Pittsburgh, the favored city, that the $500,000 syndicate is proposing to erect its tin plate works to supply perhaps a fourth part of the 371,000 tons of tin plate that are consumed annually in the United States, and to New England there comes the burden of paying her proportion of the doubled duty upon the remaining thirty-nine fortieths of the annual consumption. That is her proportion of a tax of about fourteen millions of dollars annually."

What Might Be.

It is only your Chinese wall (shutting out from Boston and Portland the coal of the Canadian maritime provinces, the Bessemer ores of Spain, Africa, Elba, Sweden, Cuba and Lapland, and the pig and scrap iron and scrap steel that the world is offering so cheaply) that prevents an expansion in the number and size of New England's foundries, rolling mills, machine shops and iron working establishments of a hundred other kinds, which would parallel the development of the new South, and would give to the capitalists of Boston a chance to invest profitably and safely at home the money they are hoarding in the land speculation, visionary schemes and hot competitions of the rapidly multiplying furnaces of the far-off South.

The Tin Plate Swindle.

[From the speech of Hon. Benjamin Butterworth.] Here is an item which is designed to establish the tin-plate industry in this country. Now, I have made a careful calculation and inquiry into this matter, and I find that it will cost the American people to-day to do just what is proposed—that is, to establish a plant to supply the nation with the plate—from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000, which, if it can live at all under the circumstances, ought to live with the present tariff. In other words, take that item alone, and there is not a home in America that will not contribute to the plant of this tin-plate establishment they propose to locate at Pittsburgh.

There is not a family in the land, there is not a person in the United States that will not contribute to it and to whom it will not be a burden, although my friend from Michigan (Mr. Burrows) here says that it does not amount to anything, for there is only 1 1/4 cents on each small piece of tin—a very small piece of tin—1 1/4 cent on each. I suppose he could be reconciled to fleas, because each one is so small. [Great laughter and applause.] It must occur to every gentleman here that to increase the duty on tin plate 125 per cent, would result in extorting from every producer of fruit or other commodity used for canning a tribute. It would levy a heavy tribute also upon every canning establishment and upon every person who consumes canned goods, and this tribute from every source would amount to $50,000,000 long before our tin plant would declare a dividend according to the books of the owners of the plant.

The Copper Extortion.

[From the speech of Hon. Benjamin Butterworth.] But there is another towlch eh I wish to call your attention—the copper industry.

Why, sir, there has not been a time in two decades when my countrymen have not produced copper as cheap as any other nation in the world, and most of the time cheaper, and yet we have these people who, on an investment equaling $1,250,000, have taken out over $80,000,000 in dividends in nineteen years, coming and asking additional protection. [Applause.]

Will you tell why the duty on copper should be continued? Why not make copper free to all the people who are using it in this country? Do you not know that every electrician in this country petitions to remove the duty on copper? It is necessary to protect this industry? Is it an infant industry?

Why, Mr. Chairman, it would be better if we had taken every man connected with that employment in the copper mines, board of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and set them up in the banking business for life.

There is no apology in the world for the duty, not the slightest. It does not protect any industry, but it draws on every family we represent. There is not a yard of wire, not a piece of copper in any household in the land, that does not pay tribute to these people. That is not all. Although they have the American consumers at their mercy, there is not a nation on the earth the citizens of which do not buy American copper cheaper than the American citizens buy it. [Applause.] For it is that Mr. Chairman, but having control of the copper market in 1887, they organized a combine by which the supply of American copper had to go back to American homes, sifted through the mercies of a French syndicate.

A Warning.

The Philadelphia Telegraph, a Republican Organ, warns Congress that "under any conditions, Mr. Cleveland, as was proved by the last contest itself, would be a hard-candidate to beat; but he would be a much harder one if the McKinley bill should pass in its present shape, which is that of discriminating in favor of the rich producers against the poor consumers. Grover Cleveland, upon a tariff-reduction platform, will be something more than a possibility—a probability, at least, in 1892—should the Republicans not revise the McKinley bill in such a manner as to make it protective of all the people and of all the country's material interests, and coddling of none."

A Question Concerning Wool.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING POST: SIR: Upon glancing over the majority report on the McKinley bill, I find a table on page 9, showing the increase in the production of wool under the fostering care of a protective tariff. The report then proceeds: "It will be noticed that in 1890, after fourteen years of revenue tariff, the total production of domestic wool was 60,264,913 pounds, or 1.7 pound per capita, while in 1884, after twenty-four years of protection, the total production had increased to 308,000,000 pounds, or 5.4 pound per capita. This increase justifies the policy of affording this important agricultural product adequate protection."

Are the figures as given correct, and if so will you kindly explain them?

Yours truly, T. M. OSBORN.
AUBURN, N. Y., May 29.
[There was only a nominal duty on wool until the year 1867. Therefore the place to begin reckoning is 1868, the year after the wool tariff went into operation. In 1868 the total clip of the United States was 177,000,000—that is, it had increased under the low duty from 60,264,913 in 1860 to 177,000,000, or about 200 per cent. in eight years. From 1868 to 1873 it declined in the ratio shown below:

Year	Total clip, pounds
1863	177,000,000
1869	162,250,000
1870	163,000,000
1871	146,000,000
1872	160,000,000
1873	174,000,000
1874	178,000,000

In seven years after the passage of the tariff of 1867, we had barely recovered the ground we had reached under the low nominal duties of the antecedent period. About this time the Western plains became available for sheep-grazing, and there was an increase of the clip, which reached its maximum in 1884 of 308,000,000, an increase of 70 per cent. in seventeen years. Since 1884 there has been a decline, the clip of 1888 amounting to only 260,000,000 pounds.—EVENING POST.]

Literary Notes.

Among the noteworthy articles in Harpers' Bazar to be published June 27th will be a sketch by Mrs. Helen H. Backus, President of the Vassar Alumnae, entitled "Vassar at Twenty-five." Emma Moffett Tyng will contribute a series of papers on Exercise for Women, an article on "Walking," to appear in the same number.

The opening and closing scenes of Mr. Besant's new novel, Armored of Lyonesse, are laid among the Scilly Islands. Tradition relates that these islands, now many miles from the main-land were once united to Cornwall by a region of extreme fertility. This was the ancient country of Lyonesse. It was inhabited by a people remarkable for their industry and piety. No less than one hundred and forty churches stood over that region which is now a waste of waters; and the rocks called Seven Stones are said to mark the place of a large city. According to an old English chronicle, Lyonesse was overwhelmed by an inundation of the sea on the 11th of November, 1099.

"This is about the time of the year," said Mrs. Watts to her neighbor, "that the fishing fever strikes my husband. If he can get out on the bank of some creek and catch two or three mud cats in the course of an afternoon he is perfectly happy. Indeed, so he is fond of fishing, then?" "Fond of fishing? Why, that man is a perfect anglo-maniac."—Terre Haute Express.

The tramp handed him a slate on which was written, "I am deaf and dumb, and I am hungry." A lady handed it back endorsed thus: "Say nothing and saw wood."—Terre Haute Express.

LAWTON'S

VEGETABLE COMPOUND

FOR THE

BLOOD, LIVER AND KIDNEYS.

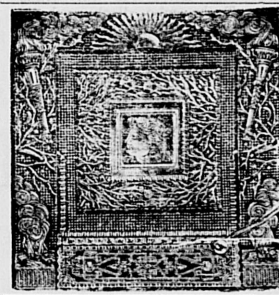

This great constitutional remedy has been on the European market for over twenty years, is superior to all others, and proven the greatest Blood Purifier and System Renovator ever compounded by medical skill. Nothing can equal it for putting the vital portions of the body in condition. If your liver is affected do you stop to think how, or what your liver is? The liver is subject to more or less little pains or aches. This organ is the sponge of the body and is continually soaked full of blood rich in poisons. Its purpose is the secretion of certain digestive and cathartic elements known as bile, and the transformation of those products of digestion which are absorbed into the blood and carried into the liver before they enter the general circulation and assist in nourishing the body. Inactivity, then, produces numerous diseases. So by using Lawton's Vegetable Compound your liver will be free from all disease. It is also absolutely necessary to know what and where are your kidneys. There are two kidneys, one on each side of the backbone. They are the only organs that purify the blood of the uric acid waste in the system. Every drop of blood courses through a great many times a day, just as through the heart. The waste matter which they should take away contains deadly poison which, if retained, causes fatal results. Sixty-five gallons of blood per hour, in the average man, passes through the kidneys, and to purify it they must be in perfect health. The kidneys are filled with many thousand hair-like tubes. These tubes run into every part of the kidney, and as the blood flows through that organ, the urine passes into these tubes, and is drained into the bladder. If these little tubes are diseased, and the uric acid is not removed, and instead of this poison coming through the blood or the albumen, which is really the life of the blood, comes through these walls and escapes with the urine; in other words the nerve action is entirely wrong, and instead of taking the poison out of the blood the life of the blood is taken out and the poison remains.

By its immediate action upon these vital organs thoroughly cleanses, renovates and restores them to their normal condition.

Palatable as Milk. Pleasant to the Taste. No Nausea.

PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

The question of homes and the methods of procuring them is one of the most vital that men have to deal with. The great mass of our people struggling under limited incomes are obliged to use economy in almost all directions to save out of their earnings sufficient to be of much benefit to them in acquiring the same. Co-operative banks have been the result of the workings of public-spirited men of the past; and their step has been "improved," making the accumulations of small savings valuable in the application toward certain specific objects, is a boon to any community. The Granite State Provident Association has made this improvement, and its plan, which is unique in its originality with us, of which the above clip is a part. To say they have taken a decided step in this direction it is not desired to create the impression that the object of their work is a philanthropic one. But if it does procure a saving of a more economical use of the funds of the people of limited means, it certainly is valuable in its action and is worthy of the consideration of all.

—The electric light pole has been removed and partial happiness reigns once more, only marred by the shadow and substance of the iron street railway pole, which still holds its sway near the middle of the great square.

—The estate of Mr. A. W. Cole, Otis street, will present a gala appearance July 4. In the evening there will be a display of fireworks, the grounds will be brilliantly illuminated, and a band will discourse music.

—One of the most beautiful displays of roses in the city can be seen upon Mr. William B. Bosson's estate, Mt. Vernon street, consisting of all the prominent named varieties. They have been greatly admired by horticulturalists and citizens generally.

—The horse attached to Adams' Express wagon became frightened by the cars near the corner of Lowell street, Monday afternoon, and ran down Washington street as far as Crafts street, colliding with Dr. O'Donnell's laundry, and damaging the vehicle considerably.

—The tower staging in the construction wagon of the Newton Street Railway company, came in contact with the electric light wires on Washington street, near the square, Tuesday afternoon, and knocked down a huge coil, which was subsequently replaced by the railroad employees.

Tickets for the round trip from Boston, 25 and 50 cents, usual price 60 cents.

—Edward H. Pierce, Esq., has obtained a decision from the court at East Cambridge in favor of his client, B. F. Barlow, against the Bailey heirs. The suit was to compel the heirs to give Mr. Barlow a deed of the land on which his blacksmith shop is situated. He bought this land at auction and paid the sum agreed upon. The heirs then refused to give a deed. The court has been a great deal of litigation over this sale, and Mr. Barlow is to be congratulated over the result.

—R. W. D. A. L. Harwood, assisted by W. A. Wetherbee, installed the following officers of Dalhousie lodge, F. & A. M., in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening: George P. Whitmore, W. M.; Robert Bennett, S. W.; George Gleason, J. W.; E. W. Gay, treasurer; E. E. Morgan, secretary; Charles Brown, S. D.; W. S. Stearns, J. D.; J. J. Coxeter, marshal; A. D. Bledsoe, chaplain; C. A. Kellogg, S. S.; C. Moore, J. S.; Alex. Bennett, I. S.; G. W. Brown, organist; Alex. Chisholm, tyler. John W. Fisher was presented with a master's jewel by George P. Whitman, W. M.

—The result of the pool tournament under the auspices of the Newton Club is summed up as follows: W. O. Hunt won by play 12, by default 2; total won 14; lost 1; John A. Kendrick won by play 10, by default 0; total won 13; lost 2; Charles H. Carter won by play 11; by default 0; total won 11; lost 4. The result of the other games have been previously given. It will be seen by the above summary that Capt. Kendrick stands first in the number of games won by play. In the billiard tournament, the winner, C. H. Carter, won 8 by play and lost 0. Mr. J. B. Goodrich was second with only 1 game lost.

—The Newton B. B. A. nine is playing good ball now and it ought to receive decent encouragement by, at least, a fair attendance at the games. The club's management was in no sense to blame for the failure of the Harvard and Brown University teams to fulfill their engagements in this city. College clubs have acquired a reputation for going back on their promises, and it is a matter of regret that they should so willingly find an excuse to disappoint people, especially as the home club is blamed more or less by the dissatisfied patrons. "You never see to play with the Harvard," "why are they not here?" is the style of angry questions which the manager of the local club must answer, although, as a matter of fact, that person can really throw no light on the matter. Having made the dates in good faith, he naturally expected that the opposing clubs would be on hand ready to play ball. It takes a good deal of resolution on the part of some men to pay 25 cents to see a game of ball, but you get your money's worth when the Newton B. B. A. team is hustling about the diamond.

—The proposal to transfer Master Spinney from the Adams school, to the Mason school, and send the grammar grade scholars to the Claflin school has aroused a perfect storm of indignation from the residents on the north side of the track, and it should be carried out all who were concerned in inducing the school board to make the change will be the most unpopular persons in that section of Newtonville. There has been a grammar school in the building for more than fifteen years, the attendance is every year increasing, and the school is of such a mixed character that the patrons claim that a master is necessary. Mr. Spinney has won the respect and esteem of both parents and scholars, and the prospect of losing him has aroused the whole district. Mr. Dickinson and Mrs. Martin have been called on by many indignant parents, who report that the change was made at the suggestion of the superintendent, in the interests of economy. Ward Two has so long enjoyed the distinction of being the only ward in the city to have two grammar schools, that it has come to be regarded as the right of the most populous ward in the city, and the prospect of losing one has called forth indignation meetings at nearly every house on the north side.

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. I have used them in the past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."

—The delightful high grounds upon which the Clavin mansion is soon to be erected, was the scene last Saturday of a genuinely pleasant time. The occasion was the Newton Centre Unitarian Sunday school picnic, it being their closing entertainment for the year. The picnic, which was held Sunday school children of this location, in contrast with former occasional visits by bands of armed men, seemed fitting as a final visitation and prophetic of a peaceful and beautiful future for the homes-to-be in that vicinity, which has so long been a favorite haunt for lovers of wild nature. Children and teachers went home grateful to Gov. Claflin for his kind and so good a time so near home, in kindly granting to them the use of the grounds. The school has prospered under its judicious selection of a lady superintendent, Miss Friend, who took charge last February. Since then, valuable acquisitions have been made in the way of teachers, and school closed last Sunday for the summer, in a prosperous condition. Additional accommodations were needed at the church for the youngest scholars and the closing out of the school was to put this need in shape for presentation to the executive committee of the church, for their consideration and action.

At 10 o'clock on the common there will be athletic sports, vaulting, running sack race, etc., followed by bicycle races.

At three o'clock in the afternoon an interesting game of base ball will be given on Walworth's field, to which the committee will run a free barge.

On the common at 4 o'clock will be given a concert by the National Guard band, with day fireworks, balloons, etc.

At the lake in the evening at 7.30 the concert will be renewed and from 8.15 to 9.15 will be a brilliant display of fireworks, the whole forming a day of great sport.

Those wishing to join in any of the races or athletic sports must make application to Mr. S. A. Shannon by Wednesday, July 2nd.
